WORKERS ARE CALLED BACK IN GM PLANTS

PRODUCTION TO BE RESUMED AFTER LONG STRIKE

Detroit, March 25 (AP)—General Motors Corp. announced tonight that it will begin immediately to recall production employees in "a great majority" of its nearly 100 plants, closed since a strike of the CIO United Auto Workers began last Nov. 21.

In a telegram to Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO leader of the long General Motors strike, the corporation said:

"We demand that the international union take such steps as may be necessary to have all employees return to work under the terms of the (national settlement) agreement without delay."

General Motors did not specify how many plants would be affected by the back to work call.

However, the corporation asserted that 59 UAW-CIO locals have announced their readiness to return to the job, while about 19 others are still on strike over unsettled local grievances.

A corporation spokesman authorized the statement that "a great majority" of the plants would be affected by the recall.

Idle 125 Days

The telegram said that Reuther had assured GM that local issues "would be cleaned up in all plants within a matter of a very few days," and said the corporation was relying on this "assurance" in planning renewal of production.

General Motors said normal production will be impossible "as long as certain of our plants are not operating" because of "the close integration of most of our plants."

The corporation began a week ago to recall maintenance and construction workers to ready its plants but had told the UAW-CIO that production employees could not hope to be recalled until all locals had approved a return to work.

The 175,000 production workers have been idle a total of 125 days since the strike began. A national agreement was reached in Detroit March 13 calling for an 18½ cent hourly wage increase.

Stalin's Peace Note Hailed As Christian By Vatican's Paper

BY JOSEPH ROSAPEPE

Vatican City, March 25 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, hailed as "Christian" today Soviet Prime Minister Stalin's statement that all nations of the world want peace.

L'Osservatore said the statement was "a call to peace to which in truth it not only looks forward, but whose furtherance it promotes."

"While there are in the world today those who swear that the flame of war crackles under the ashes, one who is the head of a great political power affirms that only the flame of peace must be fed. That is Christian," the newspaper declared.

L'Osservatore added "there are those who question" Stalin's motives in making the statement, and that "this is less Christian." It said that "this is less Christian" because the Soviet prime minister's motives, L'Osservatore said:

"The reply could be made that in this agitated post-war period the more positive (policy) would be the usual 'if you want peace prepare for war,' the worth of which the world knows through terrible experience. He (who espouses this policy) is confronted with another proverb: 'Who is without sin?'"

Hook Smells Rat In Mine Picketing Ban

Washington, March 25 (AP)—Rep. Hook (D-Mich.) said today that "all is not what it should be in the courts" that have issued injunctions against pickets in strike-bound iron mines in northern Michigan.

He urged Gov. Kelly to investigate "the situation that exists where father and son are judge and attorney and stock is being held by a judge who is interested in the outcome of the application for injunctions."

Temporary injunctions were issued March 19 on applications of Inland Steel Co., Athens Iron Mining Co., Negaunee Mining Co., North Range Mining Co. and Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co.

Approximately 2,750 CIO United Steelworkers walked out of 13 mines in the Ishpeming area Feb. 8 in a wage dispute.

1911 Troubles Recalled

"I am informed and charge the fact to be," said Hook in a statement placed in the Congressional Record, "that Judge Frank A. Bell of the 25th circuit court of Michigan holds stock in all these companies except the North Range Mining Company."

Hook said that Judge Bell disqualified himself in all cases except that of the North Range Mining Co. and that temporary injunctions in other cases were issued by Judge Herbert W. Runnels of the 11th circuit court.

But, continued Hook, in all cases presided over by Judge Runnels the "number one attorney" was Judge Bell's son, Francis A. Bell. He said he cited this "to show you that all it not what it should be in the courts in these cases."

The congressman said he was convinced "the Inland Steel Co. in part is out to bring about the same old bluegumming methods that were used in the so-called Copper Country strike in 1911."

At that time, he added, "men were shot down in cold blood and mining company officials stated that they were going to break the unions for all time."

Hook said a senate committee should investigate this phase of the situation.

MIXUP IN IRAN UP BEFORE UNO

Report To Be Asked On Reported Removal Of Russian Troops

BY HOWARD COWAN

New York, March 25 (AP)—The United Nations security council today heard U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes assert that "no nation has the right to take the law into its own hands," and then paved the way to consider tomorrow the weighty problem of Russian troops in Iran.

Byrnes, speaking at the first meeting of the important security council in the United States, warned that the council must carry out the mandate of the people of the world to travel the road to peace.

The agenda for tomorrow's session, set for 11 a. m. E. S. T., provides for the council to take up the most critical issue facing it—the Iranian-Russian question. It appeared that this likely would be done on a motion by the United States to have Russia make a report on an agreement said to have been reached between Iran and Russia which called for the withdrawal of the Red army from Iran.

However, the question has been relieved of much of its tenseness by the U. S.-mediated Iran-confirmed announcement that the Soviet troops are in the process of leaving.

After less than an hour of formalities in the sweltering heat of the improvised chamber in Hunter college gymnasium, the chairman, Dr. Qao Tai-Chi, Chinese member, rapped a gavel and adjourned the session until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Ex-Captain Works As Street Sweeper

New York, March 25 (AP)—Former Capt. John S. Cholewinski returned to his $2,000-a-year street sweeping job in his army uniform today while awaiting employment as a mechanical engineer, because he said, the department of sanitation could not furnish an outfit to fit his stocky frame.

Captain's bars gleamed on his cap, and his field jacket had service stripes for some of his 41 months in European and Pacific theaters.

The 28-year-old California Institute of Technology graduate, cheerfully pushing a broom along the streets of lower New York, said he intended to remain a sweeper while looking for mechanical engineering work.

Atomic Energy Tamed For Industrial Uses, U.S. Scientists Reveal

BY JACK BELL

Washington, March 25 (AP)—Scientists disclosed today that they knew how to "denature" plutonium so that its atomic energy could be used only for industrial purposes and not for bombs.

The disclosure was made to the senate atomic energy committee in a scientific report presented by the Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson. The report proposed an international licensing system under the United Nations commission for control of fissionable raw materials and of the manufacture of atomic power.

Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards and scientific advisor to the senators, commented that the "implication" was that the way would now be open for eventual development of atomic energy for peace time uses.

He explained to a reporter that although ways had been known by which atomic energy could be developed industrially, the chief problem which the new method of treating plutonium should solve would be that of "the traffic in plutonium rather than its engineering use."

For example, he said, if the power industry were enabled to produce atomic energy for industry with untreated plutonium, it also could make bombs as a by-product. But the new treatment, he explained, would prevent this.

Ice - Breaker Escorts First Freighters To Lake Superior

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 25 (AP)—A second freighter the Second, was plowing her way up-bound toward Lake Superior tonight close on the heels of the opening of the 1946 navigation season at the Sault Locks.

First steamer to reach the locks was the 549-foot Sir Thomas Shaughnessy of the Mohawk Transportation Co., which arrived shortly after noon with a load of coal for a Sault Ste. Marie steel plant.

A barometer set was presented to Capt. Harry Finn, in command of the Shaughnessy, on behalf of the Sault Marine Committee. Capt. Finn said trouble with ice was experienced only in Lake Munuscong, where the Shaughnessy was escorted by the Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinaw.

The Mackinaw then headed downward to accompany the Second through ice-choked channels.

MAYOR ENDS VACATION

Detroit, March 25 (AP)—Mayor Edward J. Jeffries has cut short his Florida vacation and will return to Detroit tonight, his office announced. He gave no reason for his change of plans to remain away until April 8. Jeffries is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. He left Detroit two weeks ago, prior to the entry into the political race of Kim Sigler, former, grand jury prosecutor.

REUTHER AND THOMAS FIGHT FOR UAW JOB

TALK OF CIO BOSS STIRS COMMOTION AT CONVENTION

BY FELIX B. WOLD

Atlantic City, N. J., March 25 (AP)—Supporters of Walter P. Reuther, candidate for the presidency of the United Auto Workers Union, CIO, failed tonight in an effort to force a floor debate with President R. J. Thomas, who seeks reelection.

A motion to pit Thomas against Reuther, currently vice president of the union, in debate before a special session of the convention with press and public excluded was defeated for lack of a two-thirds majority.

Pro-Reuther delegates demonstrated for 14 minutes to climax a day in which Phil Murray, president of the CIO, told the 2,000 UAW-CIO representatives he had a "distinct fondness" for Thomas, who currently is UAW president.

Endorsement Claimed

As the convention neared adjournment for the day, Mrs. Emma Murphy, a delegate from Detroit Dodge Local 3, moved for a Reuther-Thomas debate tonight with "press and public excluded."

Scores of Reuther backers leaped up and shouted acclaim. A parade formed and debate over the motion followed amid boo-ing and catcalls.

Murray precipitated a warm dispute between Reuther and Thomas adherents this morning when he praised Thomas.

The words hardly left Murray's lips in a convention speech before supporters of Thomas and Walter P. Reuther in the hot UAW-CIO political fight were claiming and disclaiming it as an endorsement.

Backers of Thomas, who seeks re-election, said it was tantamount to an endorsement of the UAW's chieftain, who has been challenged by the man who led the General Motors strike.

Followers of Reuther, a UAW-CIO vice president, insisted Murray's reference to Thomas as a "great big guy for whom I have a distinct fondness" was made only as his expression of respect to any union leader.

Murray, who said earlier he had no intention of taking part in the Auto Union's politics, made his remark about Thomas at the end of a speech in which he:

1. Accused the governors of Michigan and Pennsylvania of discrimination against labor.

2. Denied a series of "ugly and diabolical" rumors regarding the CIO's and his own personal part

Newsprint Supply Shortage Predicted

Portland, Ore., March 25 (AP)—A steady decline in newsprint supply may force American newspapers to restore wartime slenderness, Jack H. Smith, president of the Pacific Coast Association of Pulp and Paper Manufacturers, said today.

He reported the demand for paper pulp far exceeds the supply, despite heavier production than before the war. He warned all newsprint manufacturers soon will slash shipments to their customers.

Smith blamed these factors for the shortage: swollen newspaper circulation, tendency to print more pages after removal of federal rationing controls, a woods labor scarcity, unfavorable OPA price ceilings on newsprint and lack of foreign imports.

The newsprint output has been further reduced because some magazine publishers have bought paper mills and taken the entire production, Smith said.

Bay City Boys Find Mildewed Bonds Of Horse Act Showman

Bay City, Mich., March 25 (AP)—Bay City police today had good news for Thomas Updegrave, Boyertown, Pa., showman.

Somewhat mildewed but negotiable, $4,400 in war bonds and $80 in cash of the $12,000 stolen from his trailer here last July has been recovered from an ash can.

It was found by the young Dominowski brothers, Richard, 11, and Eugene, 10.

Police said the theft was reported while Updegrave, billed as "Texas Tommy," was staging his horse act at nearby Wenona Beach.

JAPANESE STUDENT HIGHEST

Wage-Price Policy Blasted By Baruch As Inflation Trend

BY FRANCIS M. LEMAY

Washington, March 25 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch today lambasted the administration's new wage-price policy as "inflationary," called for a year's moratorium on strikes and lockouts—by law if necessary—and declared that production must be the overriding aim of the American economy.

Asserting that the "race of selfishness" was on, the white haired elder statesman urged the government to take a firm grip on wages as well as prices, but at the same time not to be afraid to raise prices or wages if necessary to reach the primary objective of production.

Appearing before the house banking committee in hearings on extension of price controls, Baruch recommended creation of a "high court of commerce—a sort of supreme economic council" to repair inflationary damage which he said already had resulted from boosting pay and prices and at the same time cutting taxes.

He wanted price controls continued for another year after the present June 30 expiration date, and said it might not be a bad idea to put taxes back where they had been before this year's $6,000,000,000 cut.

Until American production comes nearer to demand, Baruch said, foreign loans to Great Britain or any other nation are unwise "except for direct needs."

Then he told the banking committee members:

"If you tell the American people what to do and why, they will do it. They don't like to play footy-footy under the table in the dark. We ought to make up our minds what to do and do it quickly."

He voiced confidence in "the commander in chief," while lashing out at the government's new wage-price policy, pegged to the recent 18½ cent an hour steel workers pay boost. He declared:

"This will be followed by increases all along the line. Call it a bulge but it is really a break—and a grave one. This was inflationary."

Then, pegged to the thesis of greater production as the overriding objective, he presented to the committee these recommendations:

1. Stop increasing the money supply;
2. Stop decreasing taxes until the budget is balanced;
3. Stop "bunking the public" by saying wage increases can be granted without increase in price levels;
4. Do not fear to increase prices or wages where necessary to get and stimulate production;
5. Continue price controls, subject to indicated modifications, for a year;
6. Avoid favoritism to any particular group;
7. Take care of "those between the milstones"—clerks, government employees, pensioners, et al;
8. Make surpluses of goods in military hands available to compensate for shortages;
9. Stimulate small business;
10. "Take stock before blindly lending—make inventories of our goods, our cash, our credit before we increase the pressure on these;"
11. Cut government costs, including federal, state, county and city;
12. Eliminate all strikes or lockouts for a year.

Baruch said the high economic court he proposed could "decide questions involved in the above points and related subjects. He did not outline his ideas for details of such a court.

DROP IS SHOWN IN EMPLOYMENT

Upper Peninsula Slump Lightest; Earnings On Decline

Lansing, March 25 (AP)—Michigan manufacturing industries showed a sectional employment drop ranging from 14.2 to 76.4 per cent in February, 1946, compared with the same month a year ago, Labor Commissioner George W. Dean reported today.

The Clare-Saginaw-Geneese-St. Clair area led the decline with 76.4 per cent, Dean said. Other districts and the percentage of decrease are:

Isabella-Ingham, 62.1; Wayne-Macomb-Ypsilanti, 35.5; Grand Traverse-Rosecommon, 44.7; Kent-Barry, 31.5; Ottawa, Kalamazoo-St. Joseph, 22.1; Calhoun-Jackson-Monroe, 22; Muskegon, 16.3; Upper Peninsula, 14.2.

Compared with January of this year, February employment was down 4.7 per cent in the Wayne metropolitan area; 5.8 per cent in the Clare-Thumb district; 5.2 per cent in the Isabella-Ingham region; 3.1 per cent in the Kent-Barry area; and 1.6 per cent in the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula. Employment increases from January to February were 2.6 per cent in the Muskegon area, 0.3 per cent in the Ottawa-Kalamazoo-St. Joseph district and 4.4 per cent in the Upper Peninsula, Dean said.

He attributed the declines to conversion, strikes and the effects of strikes on Allied industries.

Average weekly earnings were down $4 to $14 in the year and average work hours decreased 3 to 11 hours. Earnings fell off slightly in the January-February period with the exception of a nearly 43 weekly increase in the Muskegon area.

UNION MOVES TO DISQUALIFY CIRCUIT JUDGE

GOONS INTIMIDATE WORKERS, COMPANY OFFICIAL SAYS

Negaunee, Mich., March 25 (AP)—John Rise, International CIO representative from the Pittsburgh office, tonight exhorted 2,000 strikers and their wives to crowd the picket line and to keep workers from the mines until a settlement on the basis of 18½ cents an hour is made in the Marquette range iron mine strike.

He said: "Talk to them and if they continue to go to work then let your conscience be your guide—and don't have too much conscience."

Will Import Pickets

Rise jeered at newspaper comment that organizers from other districts were in the county. Failing to tell the audience the fact had been released to the press by CIO spokesmen, Rise called the statement a newspaper complaint. He said: "Yes, we have organizers and if we need them we'll bring in more organizers and more attorneys. And if we haven't enough people for the picket line, we'll bring in steel workers from Minnesota and other cities and districts."

He told the audience not to be afraid of arrest for injunction violations. "We'll bail you out," he said, "then you go right back on the picket line."

Luecke Arrives

John Luecke, of Escanaba, federal labor mediator, arrived here tonight to discuss the situation with representatives of the Steelworkers Union. Reached his hotel here, he said no session had been held tonight, and it was improbable that any would be held before tomorrow.

Luecke's arrival climaxed a day in which the Ishpeming-Negaunee Ministerial Association telegraphed an appeal to Governor Harry F. Kelly, asking for immediate action in mediating the prolonged iron mine strike, and the United Steelworkers of America submitted motions for disqualifying Judges Frank A. Bell and Herbert W. Runnels from acting as judges in injunction proceedings brought by the iron mining companies of the district against the union.

Growing Tension Feared

The ministers' telegram, signed by the Rev. C. C. Osterberg, president, and the Rev. E. P. Gieser, secretary, read:

"Ishpeming - Negaunee Ministerial Association requests mediation of prolonged iron mine strike in Marquette county. Continued mass demonstrations at mines increasing tension. Your authority operating through existing agencies we believe answer to critical situation. Immediate action imperative."

Judges Bell and Runnels issued temporary injunctions March 24 restraining the steelworkers from interfering with employees of the companies returning to work and from interfering with operations of the companies.

Meanwhile, R. S. Archibald, president of the North Range Mining company—renewing an invitation for men to return to work in the iron mines for 10 cents an hour pay increase—said the large majority of miners in this district are staying at home because of intimidation.

"The men have been intimidated going to work and their families have been intimidated," he charged, by "goon squads" who have all-

GIRRBACH WILL BE CANDIDATE

300 Creamery Head Seeks G.O.P. Gubernatorial Nomination

George Girrbach, 300 Creamery manager and prominent Upper Peninsula Republican, yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of governor at a political meeting held in Detroit and nominating petitions are already being circulated in both upper and lower Michigan.

Mr. Girrbach, a life-long Republican, is a graduate of the school of agriculture, University of Minnesota, and managed a 400-acre dairy farm in 1913-14, later taught dairying at the University of Minnesota. He served in the army in 1917-18, enlisting as a private and rising to the rank of first lieutenant before his discharge.

In 1921 and 1922 he was secretary of a Chamber of Commerce and general manager of a county fair. In 1923 he built the Rudyard creamery and in 1924 received a Master of Science degree from the Michigan State College.

He served as a dairy extension specialist at the state college from 1924 until 1930 and in that year took over the management of the Sault and Rudyard creameries.

Mr. Girrbach has been a director of the Michigan Creamery Owners and Managers Association, a life member of the Holstein-Friesian Association, and is also a member of the Michigan State Grange. He is active in the American Legion, Forty and Eight, Knights Templar, Masons and the Shrine.

Veteran Of War 2 Enters Lieutenant Governorship Race

Lansing, March 25 (P)—John MacLellan of Detroit, World War II veteran and the Michigan Welfare League's former executive secretary, was in the primary race today for the Republican nomination to the lieutenant governor's office.

MacLellan, 38 and unmarried, declared his candidacy "is a renewed fight for good government and is supported by people who believe it is worth the effort."

"I want this number two state office to give the 600,000 Michigan men and women veterans of World War II representation and an active voice now in state affairs," he asserted.

A navy volunteer, MacLellan was commissioned a lieutenant (jg) in 1942 and was placed on inactive duty last month as a lieutenant commander after serving in five South Pacific and China campaigns. He was awarded the Bronze Star Medal, commended by the British and recommended for the Soldier's Medal.

MacLellan served one term on the Wayne county board of supervisors and at one time was assistant administrator of the state emergency relief commission. He attended public school in Oscoda and Calumet townships, Houghton county, and is a former University of Detroit and University of Michigan student.

Accused Canadian Spy Is Jailed For Contempt Of Court

Montreal, March 25 (P)—Gordon Luman, accused by the Canadian government of being the "head of a group of agents" supplying Russia with war-time secrets, was cited for contempt of court today and sentenced to jail after he refused to testify at the preliminary hearing of Fred Rose, Communist member of parliament. Rose also is accused of communicating information to Russia.

Summoned as a crown witness, Luman, a former Canadian army captain, testified that he knew Rose. He denied knowing Lt. Col. Rogov, assistant military attache of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, or "Jan," a code name for Rogov.

Then Luman, on the witness stand for an hour, refused consistently to answer all other questions asked him, although he was assured by the court that no information he provided could be used against him.

Strip-Tease Union Rule Becomes Law

Atlantic City, N. J., March 25 (P)—The so-called "strip-tease" regulation applying to union convention delegates became law for the United Auto Workers today.

The UAW-CIO convention amended its constitution so that delegates to future sessions must be able to "show" three union label garments before they can get their names on the convention ballot.

Heretofore the UAW-CIO has required only the "possession and wearing of" at least three such garments.

UAW men jokingly referred to the rule as a "strip-tease" regulation.

Frankenstein Will Run For Congress

Atlantic City, N. J., March 25 (P)—Richard T. Frankenstein, union leader who was defeated by Edward J. Jeffries, incumbent in last year's Detroit mayoralty election, announced tonight he would run for congress next fall.

Frankenstein made his plans known while addressing a rally in behalf of R. J. Thomas' campaign to succeed himself as president of the CIO's United Auto Workers, in convention here.

Frankenstein said he would

Timken-Detroit Co. Sued For Violation Of Anti-Trust Law

Detroit, March 25 (P)—The Timken-Detroit Axle Company, one of the nation's largest manufacturers of axles and axle forgings, was charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act in a civil action filed here today.

The suit charged that Timken-Detroit is engaged in agreements and understandings restraining trade in axles and axle forgings. Morris Zwerling, assistant United States district attorney, said that specifically "the complaint alleges Timken-Detroit controls patents covering certain multi-wheeled automotive units essential in the manufacture of large trucks and buses designed to carry heavy loads."

The action charges that Timken-Detroit has refused to license truck and bus manufacturers under its multi-wheel unit patents unless the manufacturers purchase their axle and axle forgings from Timken.

Woman Is Charged With Armed Holdup

Detroit, March 25 (P)—Mrs. Madeline Wisniewski, 30, was remanded to the Wayne county jail in lieu of $25,000 bond today after standing mute before Circuit Judge Arthur Webster on a charge of robbery armed.

Russell Gregory, Wayne county chief of detectives, accused Mrs. Wisniewski of serving as a "look-out" for Alexander Gliva and another woman during the February 1 robbery and assault of Jerome B. Guttenberg in his Nankin township real estate office.

Apprehended several weeks ago in western Michigan, Mrs. Wisniewski claimed she was Gliva's common-law wife. Gliva is serving a life term in southern Michigan prison for the holdup slaying of another real estate dealer, Arba B. Hawley.

20 Absent Voters Cast Ballots For April 1 Election

A total of 20 votes in the city election, the ballots of absent voters, have been turned in to the office of City Clerk Carl E. Anderson, to date.

That number is average for a city election, Mr. Anderson said. The city election will be held on Monday, April 1 and two councilmen, a justice of the peace and a constable will be elected.

legedly gone from house to house. The union in its counter move against the back-to-work movement and the second today came at the Maas mine this afternoon. About 200 to 400 men visited the Maas mine this morning, but the movement went into high gear this afternoon at the Maas mine.

Because the crowd was split between two gates and in groups all the way between, it was impossible to judge the numbers of strikers and spectators. But it was unquestionably the largest crowd gathered for such purpose thus far.

The men at the Maas mine, as had been the custom, waited until all men were up from underground. As they passed to the dry, the usual boos went up. But when they appeared in street clothes and walked to their cars, a full-throated roar went up from the crowd that could be heard blocks away.

State police again were standing by while the strikers attempted to persuade their fellow workers against going back to their jobs. No violence was reported, however, and the state troopers remained in their cars.

Injunction Assailed
Company officials claim that between 400 and 500 of the 2,750 miners who walked out Feb. 8 in a wage dispute have resumed work, with seven of the thirteen mines affected returning to partial operations. Spokesmen for the CIO United Steelworkers contend only about 185 production workers have gone back.

A spokesman for the mine operators said limited operations had been resumed at the Maas, Neegaunee, Athens, Blueberry, Mather Cliffs Shafts and Cambria mines.

In another development a member of the Marquette county relief commission said the strikers would continue to be denied welfare if they were employed at mines now in operation.

The back-to-work movement began on a small scale nearly a week ago after the mine operators invited strikers to accept a 10 cents an hour wage increase and return to their jobs.

Union leaders have urged the strikers to hold out for an 18c wage increase and a bitterly assailed circuit court injunction restraining picketing.

A mass meeting of strikers was called for tonight in the Neegaunee high school auditorium in an attempt to halt further back-to-work moves. Henry A. Burkhammer of Duluth, district director of the steelworkers, was slated as the principal speaker.

Ten Families Lose Homes In Cleveland Lumber Plant Fire

Cleveland, March 25 (P)—Occupants of 10 east side dwellings were made homeless tonight after they escaped flames from a fire that destroyed approximately one-third of the Dougherty Lumber Co.

Assistant Fire Chief James Nimmo estimated property damage at $200,000 and said no casualties resulted from the blaze that destroyed the 10 houses.

Company officials said they believed the fire started in a lumber shed and spread to sawdust bins. Occupants of other nearby homes were moved out as a safety measure, they reported.

Governor Endorses Easter Seal Sale

Lansing, Mar. 25 (P)—Governor Kelly today endorsed the thirteenth annual Easter Seal sale of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Disabled Adults, Inc.

The executive office released a letter from the governor which said in part that "Easter is a particularly appropriate season in which to dedicate ourselves to those whose lives may be blighted if help fails to arrive in time."

Those present were: Frances Setick, Lucia Tobin, Margaret Blowers, Joyce Todish, Jean Thibault, Beatrice Truick, Doris Moore and Milma LeBrasseur. Mrs. Verl Duro of Gulliver was a guest at the meeting.

The club will hold its next meeting at the Victor Thibault home on March 28.

Bowling News

The Men's Bowling League began the second half of the season with a new rule which dropped the handicap so all scores are actually bowled.

The River Rats who were considered one of the best teams in the league, finished poorly in the first half of the season. On Monday they beat the Yard Birds two games, taking high single team game with 952 and high team three games with 2565. Finn Douville had a good chance to break the high single game score which is held by Dick Hescott with 242, but he failed in the last frame and his total was 234.

The Scholars walked over the P-5's for two games. Lew Bramer led the attack for the Scholars. Duck Mercier, who has been bowling with the Scholars, has resigned for the remainder of the season and his place was filled by Roland Bramer, recently discharged Navy man.

On Thursday the Herring Chokers took two games from the Elites.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Cunningham and family of Gladstone spent the weekend at the Andrew Krutina home.

Woodsman Burned To Death In Cabin

Marquette—Tauno Matt Tapinen, 32, employed by George Anderson on logging operations in Wells township, was accidentally burned to death about 3 o'clock Sunday morning in his one-room cabin in Watson.

According to details learned by Sheriff Howard P. Treado and Coroner Marvin P. Fassbender, who were called shortly after the accident, Tapinen went home after a party with neighbors about 2:30 a. m. He stood talking with George Johnson, who lived nearby, a few minutes, telling him he was going to fix a lunch before going to bed. Apparently, Tapinen put a pot of coffee on the kerosene stove, then laid down and fell asleep. It is believed the coffee boiled over, causing the stove to flame up and ignite the cabin.

Johnson told the county officers he was awakened by noise of the flames at about 3 a. m. Thinking that Tapinen had gone out, he dressed and went down the road a short distance to the home where the party had been held earlier in the evening. Learning Tapinen was not there, he and several other men went back to the cabin and found the burned body in bed.

Johnson called Treado from William Jaeger's store, a few miles away, and the officers found the body and cabin still smoldering when they arrived. Fassbender said it was accidental death and stated that Tapinen probably was overcome by smoke while he was asleep.

Tauno Tapinen was born July 9, 1913, in Woodlawn, and had been employed for several years as a woodsworker.

He is survived by three brothers: Toivo and Henry of Woodlawn, and Uno of Detroit; three sisters, Mrs. Irene Suojanen of Woodlawn, Mrs. Edith Johnson of Marquette, and Mrs. Hlane Johnson of Detroit.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home in Escanaba, where services will be held this afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. Karl J. Hammar of Central Methodist church officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

Clulo Appointed To Marquette Job

Marquette—Appointment of James A. Clulo, Norway, to be superintendent of public works and city engineer, effective April 1, was voted unanimously by the city commission at a special meeting Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Clulo, a native of Marquette, was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1929 with a B. S. degree in civil engineering and since that time has had wide experience in highway engineering and building, as well as in general construction and engineering.

From 1943 to 1945 he served as a lieutenant-commander in the Civil Engineer Corps, U. S. Naval Reserve, and was on various islands in the Pacific theater of war. His work included grading, surfacing and paving of roads and airfields and installation of water lines and sewers. He had charge of construction projects on the greater Hawaiian and Marianas Islands, as well as Oahu and Guam.

Prior to entering the Navy, Mr.

Clulo was employed as resident construction engineer for the firm of Holland, Ackerman and Holland, Chicago. The last project on which he served as resident engineer was the Peavy Falls hydro-electric development for the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company. The total cost of the project was $5,000,000.

Strip-Tease Union Rule Becomes Law

Atlantic City, N. J., March 25 (P)—The so-called "strip-tease" regulation applying to union convention delegates became law for the United Auto Workers today.

The UAW-CIO convention amended its constitution so that delegates to future sessions must be able to "show" three union label garments before they can get their names on the convention ballot.

Heretofore the UAW-CIO has required only the "possession and wearing of" at least three such garments.

UAW men jokingly referred to the rule as a "strip-tease" regulation.

Citation Tells Of Heroic Action Of Pfc. George Bloom

Mrs. Capitola Bloom, Gladstone route 1, has received the citation which was awarded posthumously to her husband, Pfc. George Bloom, who lost his life in combat in Germany early last year. Presentation of the Silver Star was made at ceremonies held in the American Legion club rooms on Jan. 21, but the information concerning the award was received only recently.

"On 19 March 1945, Company L, 16th Inf., had the mission of taking a hill about 2000 yards to the northeast of Steingraben, Germany. The third platoon was given the task of securing the right half of the hill, and as an advance, an eight man patrol was sent forward to investigate enemy strength. As this small unit reached the base of the hill, the enemy opened up on them with small arms and machinegun fire, pinning them down in the open."

"Pvt. Bloom was pinned down with the other seven men of the patrol, but saw immediately that it was extremely dangerous to hold this position for any length of time. He told the other members of the patrol to take cover behind an embankment which was a short distance off, while he supplied them with covering fire from his B.A.R. Moving into an exposed position, Pvt. Bloom took the enemy under fire and afforded enough distraction to permit his comrades to reach a point of safety. While firing his weapon, Pvt. Bloom was hit by enemy fire and killed almost instantly."

"This courageous and self-sacrificing action performed by Pvt. Bloom resulted in saving the lives of seven of his comrades, and permitted them to return to their unit with valuable information. His behavior in this dangerous situation, giving his life to save his fellow soldiers, reflects the greatest credit on his unit and the service to which he belonged."

NEWBERRY MAY ORGANIZE C-C

Citizens Will Discuss
Question On Friday Evening

Newberry, Mich.—The future and fate of a Chamber of Commerce in Newberry and vicinity will be tested when a meeting of all interested citizens will be called on Friday, March 29 at 8:00 p. m. in the Community building, to decide whether or not there is enough interest and backing to support such an organization.

A committee of Newberry businessmen called by the Lions club at its last regular session met Friday night at 5:00 p. m. to make plans for calling a citizens caucus to decide the issue. It was made clear that everyone in the vicinity interested in the welfare and development of this area is cordially invited to attend the grand session to air their views on the subject of a Chamber of Commerce and to help organize the unit if the general public is in favor of it. Harry J. Surrall, committee chairman stated, "The Lions club is interested only in starting the ball rolling. Once the meeting is started it will be turned over to the public to decide what will be done. This is a civic project and belongs to every citizen and organization in the area."

Committees for promotion of the project are: Program, Harry J. Surrall and S. M. Ennis; facilities, Ernie Hiltunen and Pete Johnson; publicity, Thos. Worsham, Mervin Pike and O. J. Sundstrom.

DISCUSS FOREST ISSUES

Bessemer—Land acquisition and exchange policies of the federal forest service and state conservation department were aired, criticized, and discussed at a meeting in the courthouse here this morning between representatives of the two agencies, the county board, and interested citizens. Principal objection by critics of the land policies of the governmental agencies appeared to be to 100 per cent public ownership of shore lines of lakes, which it was contended barred private resort development and deprived the townships and county of tax revenues.

TAKES FEDERAL JOB

Hancock—John D. Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Shea of 640 Lake avenue, has left for Saginaw, where he has accepted a position with the Internal Revenue Department as deputy collector. Upon completion of four months leave, Mr. Shea was discharged from the U. S. Navy March 14, 1946, with the rank of lieutenant commander. During his 55 months of active duty he was attached to the 15th division on board the U. S. S. Mt. Vernon for two years, after which he was transferred to the U. S. S. Cascade.

URGES TIMBER RESERVE

Houghton—John Hamar, president of the Hamar-Quandt Lumber company, addressed the members of the Houghton-Hancock Business & Professional Women's club Tuesday evening on the subject of "The Background of American Forestry." Mr. Hamar stressed the need for methods of harvesting timber and reforestation which will provide a perpetual stand of timber for the country's needs.

"Bring Your Own Sugar Stamp" On Vacation Says OPA

"Bring your own sugar," promises to become a popular slogan on tourist literature for small establishments this summer, since current OPA regulations provide no sugar for boarding houses and summer resorts with fewer than 50 persons.

"These establishments are classified as Group One among institutional users and will have to operate under a system by which the vacationists will have to use their ration stamps to obtain sugar," said Edward Packenham, chairman of the Delta county price control board. "We are reminding vacationists who plan to spend a couple weeks at some summer cottage or boarding house with fewer than fifty residents that they had better take their sugar ration books along. We hope this early reminder will avoid a lot of confusion later, when Michigan should enjoy a boom tourist season now that wartime travel restrictions have been removed," said Mr. Packenham.

"Restaurant and hotels (more than 50 persons) are classified as Group Three users and they receive sugar for their residents," he said. "If boarding houses with fewer than 50 tenants run a restaurant in connection with the resort then they may qualify as a Group Three user."

Mr. Packenham said that in order to obtain the proper allocation for sugar allotment, the user would have to apply in person or in writing to the "Sugar Rationing Division, Office of Price Administration, 14 West Fort Street Detroit 26, Mich." This is the only place where such applications are distributed and processed. Applicants should supply as much information about their intended use of sugar and their establishment as possible in their letters, which should be mailed early.

Liquor Sale Charge Made
Against Miss Lorraine
DeRouin Dismissed

After examination of the testimony heard in the case of Miss Lorraine DeRouin, 711 Ludington street, who had been charged with the sale of liquor at the Chuckle Club, Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette reported yesterday that he found no cause for action and the case was dismissed.

Miss DeRouin is employed in the kitchen of the night club which is located several miles west of the city.

Hearing of the case was conducted here early this month but Justice Ranguette postponed making any decision until he had completed a study of the transcript of the testimony.

Charles Johnston, proprietor of the club, arrested on the morning of Jan. 20 with Miss DeRouin and charged with the sale of liquor without a license, was bound over to circuit court for trial in April following a hearing before Justice Ranguette early this month.

Armored Division Wants Enlistments

Men with previous service in the armored force of the U. S. Army have the unusual opportunity of enlisting for assignment to the Second Armored Division now stationed at Camp Hood, Texas according to Capt. Charles B. Guthridge, Milwaukee Recruiting Officer, 110 E. Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The opportunity will be available to interested veterans until midnight April 7, 1946. This is the first time in many years that the Army has allowed recruiting for specific assignment to an organization, according to Capt. Guthridge.

The Second Armored Division became famous as the "Hell on Wheels" Division of World War II. It was commanded by General Patton during the African Campaign. Subsequently the division made the D-day invasion in France with the Third Army. During the final phases of the German campaign the 2nd Armored, then a part of the Ninth U. S. Army arrived at the Elbe River to await a rendezvous with the Russians.

Additional information concerning enlistment in the 2nd Armored Division may be obtained at the Army Recruiting Station, Room 318, Escanaba Post Office Building.

Seek Information On Farm Land And Jobs For Veterans

"Farmers in this county will have a chance to help provide essential information, needed by the State Agricultural College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, about farm land and farm jobs available for war veterans and other information required for up-to-date reports on land ownership," said E. A. Wenner, Delta county agricultural agent.

"If you are a land owner and receive one of the 'Land Ownership' questionnaires now being mailed out by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, you can help by filling in the answers and returning promptly in the self-addressed envelope which will come to you with the printed questions."

National and Regional reports to be compiled from the survey and from other available information will provide latest figures on how many farms are sold each year, value and size of farms, number of proportion of those who own the farms they tend, how many farmers retire each year, and other data necessary for a "reliable National and Regional picture of land ownership."

No use will be made of individual replies to the questionnaire except to compile total figures in combination with the replies of other land owners. The Government pledges that the individual's reply, as such, will be held strictly confidential.

"Only about every tenth farmer in the county will receive the questions, as the sample method similar to the public opinion polls will be used. We are hopeful that close to a hundred per cent of the forms will be returned in this county. All landowners filling out and returning their questionnaires will receive copies of the reports of the survey as soon as they are prepared."

High Blood Pressure A Warning of Dangerous Complications

If you suffer from High Blood Pressure, and have been unable to improve your condition with old style medicines, then take time out now and ask yourself "Why has not my condition improved?"

High Blood Pressure is a warning that something is wrong with your system—something, if let go, may lead to Hardening of the Arteries, a Stroke, Paralysis, Heart Trouble, Kidney Disease, or other grave conditions. Drugs and medicines that give only temporary relief will not do one bit of good toward removing the cause of your trouble. You must remove or ally the cause of your trouble.

The Ball Clinic, through its system of Health Correction, combined with the World's Famous Mineral Waters and Baths of Excelsior Springs, has developed a new method of treating High Blood Pressure. Every day remarkable results are being achieved with sufferers regaining better health.

DISCUSS PUBLIC FOREST POLICY

4-H Club Conservation
Program Emphasized
At Meeting

Representatives of local, state and federal agencies interested in conservation met yesterday at the courthouse in Escanaba to discuss policies in connection with the correct use of public lands, and the value of the 4-H Club conservation program in the conservation of our natural resources.

The meeting held here was one of four scheduled in the Upper Peninsula. Representatives of the U. S. Forest Service, the Michigan Department of Conservation, the extension service of Michigan State College, the Soil Conservation Service, school superintendents and other interested persons. Conducting the meeting was Paul Barrett, Lansing, land use specialist, who is jointly employed by Michigan State College and the Department of Conservation.

Much of the discussion centered around the best utilization of forest lands, from the standpoint of agriculture, game management, forests, and recreation uses. Primary purpose of the meeting was to acquaint the conservation officers with the possibilities of youth, as represented by the 4-H Clubs, in the conservation movement.

Orville Walker, Marquette, assistant state 4-H Club leader, outlined to the officers the plan for the clubs in conservation work, and described the work that has been done in the past. Because of the war, the program has declined, but is now being revived.

About 42 persons were present at the meeting, including all conservation officers of the Delta-Marquette-Alger district. Others who were present, and most of whom spoke, were as follows:

Fred Struhsaker, Lansing, lands division chief of the conservation department; George McIntyre, assistant chief of the forest division; F. F. Tubbs, in charge of game areas for the game division; Lorna Curry, Marquette, regional supervisor in charge of field administration; Richard Gearhart, Marquette, regional representative for the conservation department's education division.

Extension service representatives included J. G. Wells, Chatham, assistant county agent leader in the Upper Peninsula; E. A. Wenner, Delta county agricultural agent; Gail Bowers, Menominee county agent; R. H. Kaven, Marquette county agent; Ray Skog Marquette, forestry specialist; and Mr. Walker.

U. S. Forest Service representatives were Paul Wohlen, supervisor; Louis Hermel and Wesley Ayre; and Walter Zillgut, superintendent of the forest experiment station at Dukes.

For a Sound, Sensible Business Administration

— VOTE FOR —

Elmer R. Klasell for the City Council

I believe that a city can best serve ALL of its citizens—including those whose interest lie in Labor, Industry or War Veterans—by conducting its affairs in a sound, businesslike manner.

With the revenues received from properly managed municipal utilities, liquor taxes, state-derived funds, etc., there is no reason why the city tax rate cannot be kept at a minimum in Escanaba. A city known for its sound, efficient administration attracts good Industries, promotes general business expansion; encourages home building, ownership and real estate development, thus creating more jobs and greater opportunities for the returning veterans and other young people of the community.

I have lived in Escanaba for 40 years and am fully acquainted with the city's problems and needs. I have served 4 years as a city supervisor on the county board. I am not under obligation to any group and can view any question or problem with an open mind. I have the courage to say NO, when "no" is the correct answer.

BECAUSE public interest has been diverted to the more exciting events, only casual attention has been given by most Escanaba citizens to the industrial developments of the past two years of Escanaba.

Back in the depression years, the establishment of a government office, employing few or several persons, was regarded as an outstanding community achievement. Of course, Escanaba and other cities were then grasping at any straw that might help to increase employment and business activity.

During the past couple years, however, a half dozen industries have located in Escanaba, largely as a result of the joint promotion work of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and the city of Escanaba. These industries now employ about three hundred persons, and will employ more when raw materials are more easily obtainable.

If Escanaba had not had a wide-awake Chamber of Commerce, the successful industrial development program probably would never have gotten its start. Of course, we must not stop here. There are still opportunities for new industrial ventures here, as soon as building materials are made available.

And that is not all. Escanaba needs a well-financed Chamber of Commerce to lead the community in its attack on pressing postwar problems. There will be much opportunity for Escanaba if it works out an effective program for cashing in on the coming boom in tourist travel. Escanaba must be the first opportunity take steps to rebuild itself as a shopping center. Many other tasks will present themselves, all of which will demand the attention of the community through the leadership of its Chamber of Commerce.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce needs more memberships to be adequately financed for the big job ahead. These will be sought in the membership campaign, which will be launched on Thursday. The Chamber has served Escanaba's business and professional interests well in the past, and deserves their wholehearted support.

It is probably only an oversight but, according to the bureau of internal revenue, many returned veterans have been guilty of violating a provision of the arms registration law which relates to certain types of weapons.

The firearms covered by the provision requiring registration include revolvers and pistols equipped with silencers, shoulder stocks or full automatic attachments; shotguns and rifles with barrels under 18 inches in length and machineguns or any other type of weapon firing more than one bullet with one pull of the trigger.

All these types, it will be noted, are favorites with gangsters; the purpose of the law is to prevent their falling into the hands of lawless elements, and to help in tracing them in the event they come into the criminal's possession. Registering the firearms also has the salutary effect of encouraging a feeling of greater responsibility on the part of the owner, thus lessening the danger that they will be carelessly left around within the criminal's grasp.

The owner of souvenir weapons has nothing to lose by registering them; the reverse is not true. They should, therefore, be registered without delay and rendered completely and permanently useless as firearms. If they were brought back as souvenirs every precaution should be taken to see that they will never be anything but souvenirs.

WORDS TO WATCH
Time and again this column has emphasized the folly of picking up new pronunciations without first making sure that they do not violate established usage. Blindly accepting someone's unusual pronunciation, regardless of the someone's importance, will lead to inevitable embarrassment.

For example, a teacher writes: "Recently an eminent professor lectured at our school at a teachers' meeting. He repeatedly pronounced the word 'educative' as 'eh-JOO-kuh-tiv'. The second-syllable accent was new to me, but I didn't question so learned a doctor. So I foolishly began saying 'eh-JOO-kuh-tiv', and even taught the pronunciation to my English class. You can imagine my extreme distress when my husband's ridicule sent me to the dictionaries of our school library where I learned that I had been using and spreading an entirely erroneous pronunciation! Never again will I be guilty of so silly an act."

I know of countless such instances. The secretary of a large advertising association has said, as long as I have known him "pewblicity" for "publicity." A network commentator invariably says "HAIR-oh-wik" for "heroic." A man high in industries of Delta county are promised a better educational break in the future.

Voters of Escanaba township have approved a proposal to increase their tax rate by five mills to build up a sinking fund to use for the construction of a consolidated elementary school. Pupils now attending out-moded one-room and two-room schoolhouses would all attend the central school building, where they would receive more specialized training and have more of the advantage of urban school students. Launching of the Escanaba township building project, however, is contingent upon the passage of federal or state legislation, which would provide additional funds.

At Rapid River, a movement has been launched for the consolidation of the Ensign, Bay de Noc and Masonville school districts, which would make possible the addition of home making, farm shop and general agricultural departments to the school. It would give the children of the three townships educational facilities on par with those at the Stephenson consolidated school, which has been the envy of rural educators and parents of many less-fortunate agricultural communities.

Boys and girls of today are entitled to receive a good education in their home communities. It should not be necessary for them to board away from home to obtain school training. What is being done in Escanaba, Masonville, Ensign and Bay de Noc townships is a start in the right direction.

Russia Backs Down

THE most critical international problem since the end of the war, the presence of Russian troops in Iran and the refusal of the Soviet government to withdraw them, has been eased by the Russian announcement that the Red forces are being evacuated "according to agreement" with the Iranian government.

The sudden turn of events in the Iranian crisis is extremely encouraging for it offers new hope that the UNO will be able to solidify its position as an assembly to work out peaceful settlement of international problems. In backing down from its position on Iran, Russia is, in effect, indicating its support to the principle of the UNO which that government helped to establish. This action provides substance to Stalin's assurance that Russia is sincerely backing UNO.

Just what Russia hoped to gain by its threat of military force in Iran still remains obscure. The movement of Red Army troops into Iran long after the deadline had passed for the evacuation of Russian soldiers indicated Marshal Stalin was prepared to scuttle the United Nations Organization even before it had an opportunity to establish root. The sudden reversal of this strategy, however, provides genuine indication that Russia stands behind the UNO and peaceful settlement of international affairs.

The way the situation stands now, the Iranian problem is no longer critical and the UNO should find little difficulty working out a satisfactory solution.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—In the aftermath of every war, it happens. It is happening here in Washington today. A determined drive is in progress to cut the power of the federal government, back onto the General Grant era.

So much is happening in the world that this is going on almost unnoticed. People are busy trying to piece their lives together again after the vast upheaval that began in 1941. Headlines reflecting that threat of a new war are distracting.

Lobbyists who want to cut back the powers of the government are backing an old familiar device. It is the device of "judicial review."

—HGG-TIE WITH RED TAPE—
Several bills which are before Congress with powerful support would make it difficult or impossible for many administrative agencies of the government to function. Every decision by a commission or a board could be taken to the courts and hog-tied with legal red tape.

That would be the effect of a bill already passed by the senate. The pages of this bill drip with legal language that is about as intelligible to the ordinary citizen as Chinese. Those who have studied it from a disinterested point of view believe it would change the laws of evidence in such a way that the authority of the administrative agencies would be reduced to the vanishing point.

When S. 7, the Judicial Review bill, was before the senate, curious and at times contradictory statements were made about it. At one time, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, wanted to make sure that the measure had not been drawn "to nullify what executive departments set up by Congress might be attempting to do."

"Positively, we nullify nothing," Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, the author of the bill, replied.

A little later, Senator Walter George of Georgia asked whether, under the bill something could be done about changing the rule that now makes it impossible for the courts to review the evidence on which the National Labor Relations Board bases its decisions.

McCarran replied: "Yes, it would change that rule."

That seemed to put it both ways so that everybody would be happy. In any event, the bill was passed without a record vote.

—BACK TO OX-CART—
Similar proposals are now before the House Judiciary committee. One is the handiwork of chairman Hatton Summers of Texas, who would put government back to the days of the ox-cart. Summers recently announced his intention not to run again for Congress because he feels so frustrated in his efforts to restore government to the simplicities of the candlelit age.

Representative Carroll Reece of Tennessee is pushing a bill which would submit decisions of the Federal Trade Commission to Judicial Review. If this is passed, the same formula will be used on the National Labor Relations Board, the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Communications Commission, and other agencies. That is why the bill is being watched with such close interest by lobbies for important industrial groups. An interesting commentary is the fact that the author of this bill is the man who seems most likely to be the new chairman of the Republican National Committee.

It would be wrong, of course, to present this issue in terms of all black and all white. Reasonable men voted for S. 7 out of sincere conviction. They believe a new uniform system of administrative law is essential to restrain agencies and bureaus that make up their own law as they go along.

Some agencies have in the past overstepped the authority congress granted them. In some cases, the law creating an agency needs changing. The Wagner Labor Relations Act should be amended to end injustices inevitable under the act as it stands at present.

But the way to cure those wrongs is by a direct approach. To increase the stranglehold of law by a sweeping gesture is to endanger the very function of government. As it is today, the law is Washington's chief industry.

There was a time—and it was not so long ago—when major economic decisions for the country were made by corporation lawyers in New York. The heads of certain big law firms set up the holding-company systems which controlled vast networks of power and industry.

That was not the local control that Rep. Hatton Summers talks about with such piety. Absentee ownership and absentee government are both bad. Clever lawyers for powerful interests would like to get the center of power re-oriented once again in Wall Street.

trial circles makes a plea for more "corporation" between management and labor. The mayor of a large Midwestern city appeals on the radio for better "muni-SIP-al" planning.

Such mistakes, like the professional "en-JOO-kuh-tiv," are not the result of ignorance, but of a sort of tone-deafness to one's own pronouncing peccadilloes, or of accepting as correct someone else's speech blunders.

Here is a good tip for all speakers: Before copying anyone's pronunciation of any word, go to a late-edition, recognized dictionary and look up the word for yourself. But be sure that you clearly understand the dictionary's method of showing pronunciations. You'll find example words at the top or bottom of each page.

The old adage applies especially to speakers: Be sure you're right, then go ahead.

Good Morning!

BIKINI ATOLL—It doesn't pay to be soft about these things, of course. After all, there's only a handful of brown-skinned natives on Bikini atoll in the Pacific. They can be moved easily, together with their pigs and chickens, and no one will make a complaint to the UNO. And our diplomats and statesmen are more concerned about Iranian oil than Bikini natives.

No one ever heard of Bikini before it was decided to explode an atomic bomb there. That's civilization for you. One moment a little-known corner of the world is little-known, and the next moment it's in the headlines all over the world.

It's time those natives on Bikini realized that no matter where you live nowadays, you're really not very safe. Might as well bring them up to date and make them feel insecure along with everyone else. Who are they to live peacefully content among their palm trees, their pigs and chickens and children while the rest of the world writhes on the atomic hot-seat?

VERY INTERESTING—The native chief on Bikini probably had a very difficult time explaining to his people the necessity for moving from their little island to a place of "security" while the atomic bomb test is to be made.

Security? They already had that. The chickens were laying, the pigs were fat, and fishing was good in the lagoon. The kids were healthy and had a lot of fun climbing the coconut trees. The gardens were good, as usual, and there was food for everyone.

Undoubtedly when the chief finally convinced his tribesmen they must move or be blown right out of the ocean along with their island, the natives probably asked a very reasonable question: Why pick on Bikini?

WELL, WHY?—Frankly, that's a question that interests more people than you'll find on Bikini. From the atomic bomb group, the answer is simple. They want an island to blow up. From the standpoint of the Bikini natives, the answer isn't so easy. They don't want to blow up anything, and particularly they do not care about having their island "atomized."

Let us consider for an impossible moment that the tables were turned, that the Bikini natives, possessing the atomic bomb secret, wanted to blow up an island. Let us, they would say, go as far away from our home as possible, find an island inhabited by virtual strangers and give it the works.

What island to select? Well, one without palm trees, pigs, chickens, a lagoon. Where is such an island? Let's see, here's one way over on the east coast of North America called Long Island. Not a palm tree, a pig or a chicken. Nothing really important except a few million people and they can be asked to pack up and move to Chicago.

THE SIDESHOW—The destruction of Bikini in an atomic explosion has been postponed for a few weeks by order of President Truman, who reports that the majority of our congressmen want to attend the big show. For the benefit of virtual strangers to Bikini, the palm-fringed atoll in the South Seas will remain in one piece for a few weeks more.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

Berlin—Adolf Hitler oratorically and diplomatically rejected the Locarno program of four former World war allies tonight and told Europe he is standing pat.

Washington—Applications for the position of postmaster at Escanaba have been received from Regina W. Cleary, Louis Belanger, L. F. Feldhusen, L. J. Perrin, J. P. Byrne, C. J. Corcoran, J. H. Stephens, J. C. Tobin, S. R. and Mildred Swellander.

Mrs. A. H. Trowbridge, mother of Mrs. William Warrington of this city, and a former resident of Hancock, passed away Friday, March 20, at Medford, Ore.

Mrs. B. J. MacKilican, who suffered injuries to her back in a fall on slippery pavement several days ago, is recovering from the effects of the fall, and probably will be able to be out again by the last of this week.

20 Years Ago—1926

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hirn, 611 North 13th street, are the parents of a daughter, born at St. Francis hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Kitchen returned yesterday morning from a short vacation visit in Florida and other parts of the south.

An eight pound son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carlson at their home, 930 Sheridan Road, yesterday morning.

P. H. Connell, veteran Chicago, and North-Western Railway engineer, has returned from an extended tour of the south and southwest, where he visited with friends and relatives in Mena, Ark., New Orleans, Los Angeles and other cities.

The Escanaba high school negative debate team finished its season last night by winning a unanimous decision over the Kingsford high debaters at the Ford City. The Esky speakers were Joseph Kohler, Robert Beggs and Warren Edwards.

Congressmen undoubtedly will have very little to do with the big show, and they would have time for the sideshow—watching the Bikini natives' reaction to the demonstration of atomic energy.

They might interview the natives on how they managed to live so peacefully so long without benefit of an army or navy.

WASTED ENERGY—There will not be a palm tree, a leaf of grass or a bird left when the bomb demonstration is over. Even Bikini itself may be gone. All that will be left will be the diplomats, the statesmen, the scientists and the congressmen. The Bikini natives probably would not make the trade—if they had a choice in the matter.

DESTRUCTIVE PURPOSE—Somehow it seems a little unpleasant why our government is so intent on demonstrating to the Bikini islanders, the Russians and the British, the French and the Americans the destructive effectiveness of the atomic bomb.

Perhaps we may still have doubts that the atomic bomb is just a flash in the pan invention, a freak that will not work more than two or three times. Perhaps, also, we may wish to impress on a wondering world the power of our mighty right arm, an object warning for everyone else to keep out of the way unless they want to be destroyed. Perhaps the demonstra-

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Today, the greatest idea springing from the late war—that nations can solve their difference without resort to bloodshed—receives its greatest test.

The outcome of this test will decide whether 12,000,000 men who fought for a warless world shall have fought in vain.

This reporter, who has occupied a ringside seat at some of the great diplomatic battles of our time, remembers vividly the other great tests of recent history—and how the people who had most to lose were let down.

Those defeats have been like erosion. One tiny rivulet in the flood-gates against war opens a small hole. Then another defeat opens another hole, and soon a torrent of battle has flooded the world.

Eighteen years ago, this reporter sailed to Paris with Frank B. Kellogg to witness the signing of a pact which expressed the hopes and dreams of people all over the world for a warless world. Editorials everywhere hailed the event as marking a new era of peace. And Henry L. Stimson, who succeeded Kellogg, honestly tried to make it so. He used the Kellogg pact as a real instrument of American policy a substitute for this country's earlier failure to participate in the League of Nations.

But on the very day the Kellogg pact finally was ratified and the diplomats of 40 countries crowded into the White House to commemorate the occasion, Soviet Russia threatened war with China over the Chinese eastern railroad in northern Manchuria. The Red army was massed on Chinese borders. It looked as if the Kellogg pact would be made meaningless on the very day it took effect.

—STIMSON GETS SLAPPED—

Stimson, however, rallying support from other countries, wrote a tough note to the Russians and received in reply one of the most caustic of diplomatic messages. It concluded: "The Soviet government cannot forbear expressing amazement that the government of the United States which, by its own will, has no official relations with the Soviet, deems it possible to apply to it with advice and counsel."

Mr. Stimson got slapped, but it was worth the pain. For the Russians promptly withdrew their troops. Peace had been preserved.

Stimson's next big test came two years later in 1931, when the Japs sent troops into Mukden to protect the south Manchurian railway. To the appeasers in Washington, London and Paris, it seemed an unimportant incident. But Stimson recognized it for what it was—a small break in the flood-gates against war which could become dangerously greater.

For months he battled against both British diplomats who secretly sided with the Japanese and against isolationist Republicans inside the Hoover administration. Hoover himself did not support his secretary of state. Finally Stimson lost. He wanted to take drastic, definite measures when he knew the Japs were weak, not later when they would be enriched by Chinese raw materials. But he was forced to accept a compromise. An international commission merely slapped Japan on the wrist.

That was the first small but dangerous break in the flood-gates against war. If Stimson had won that battle, Pearl Harbor might never have occurred. War might have been averted.

—MUSSOLINI TAKES ETHIOPIA—

Next came Mussolini's war against Ethiopia. By that time the Axis had been formed and its members were getting bolder. They had watched Japan get what she wanted in Manchuria, and now Mussolini decided to get his from the last remaining independent country in Africa.

Once again, the forces of peace flinched. The League of Nations invoked sanctions, but it did not ban oil from Italy. Without oil, Italian warships and airplanes would have been powerless. But British and American oil companies were too powerful. Italy made the next big hole in the flood-gates against war by defeating Ethiopia.

After that it was Hitler's turn and he walked into the Ruhr and the Rhineland. His troops were pitifully small compared with the huge French army, and they were given a double set of orders, one to advance, the other to retreat immediately if the French resisted. But the French cabinet, after debating all day, and after getting no cooperation from the British, yielded to the appeasers. Hitler now sat across the Rhine, having opened another big hole in the safeguards against war.

Next chapter was Hitler's seizure of Austria. Again the powers of peace side-stepped. It was easier to procrastinate than to act.

It's a smart man who avoids being a fall guy by taking

OPA WILL HEAR LUMBER CASE

Bay de Noquet Company Explains Dilemma To Rep. Bradley

Washington, D. C. (WNS)—Office of Price Administration executives will meet with the Lumber Industry Advisory Council this week to take up the question of ceiling prices on lumber, Representative Bradley of Michigan said today.

In the office of Representative Hook of Michigan, Representative Bradley, Representatives O'Konski and P. rnes met with a group of OPA officials to discuss the increasing of ceiling prices on Hemlock and other lumber produced in Michigan and northern Wisconsin.

Case of the Bay de Noquet Lumber company was taken up by the representatives in detail. Representative Bradley had received a letter from the company explaining its predicament.

Explanation was made that an increase in wage directed by the War Labor Board cost the company $118,000 a year while the increase granted by the OPA on lumber meant only $28,000 a year, showing a loss of $90,000 to the company. The OPA allowance was $2 a thousand feet. The increase required to meet the wage increase would be $6 a thousand feet on the 14,000,000 feet of lumber produced by this company, Representative Bradley told OPA representatives.

Lumber required for a $5,000 home is 5,000 feet so that an increase in cost of a house to cover the wage increase would be about $50.

OPA officials stated that a meeting would be held in Milwaukee, Wis., or at some other point in the Michigan-Wisconsin lumber area, with the Lumber Industry Committee of OPA at which the question of an increase in ceiling prices would be considered. OPA was represented in the conference in Representative Hook's office by several OPA officials, including Frank Kethum, general counsel.

Public Is Invited To See Trees Film

The Escanaba junior high school, cooperating with the Daily Press publicity of "Trees Forever," invites the public to attend a special showing of the sound motion picture "Trees for Tomorrow" on Friday, April 5. The picture is to be shown to the science classes and will be run each period during that day in the stage room of the junior high. The public is invited to attend any of the showings.

"Trees for Tomorrow" tells the dramatic story of our forests' contribution to the war effort and shows the methods employed by Forest Management in the conservation of this vital national resource for the future. It is a story of "growing" trees, rather than cutting trees.

Unusual outdoor photography, filmed in the beauties of nature, shows the modern technique of forest conservation. Like other products of the soil, trees are a crop and must be properly cared for during growth and harvested at maturity. "Selective logging" is our insurance against waste either from indiscriminate cutting or from over-age. Planned forest conservation includes constant replacement of the tree crop through careful planting of seedlings, up-to-date ways of fire spotting and fighting to prevent senseless wastage of our forests.

"Trees for Tomorrow", made available by American Forest Product Industries, reveals ingenious new uses of wood during the wartime emergency. Lightweight plywood aircraft—prefabricated houses for war workers—raw materials for vital chemicals—cellulose—plastics—even clothing are now being made from the tremendous resources of American forests.

Reckless Driving Case Is Postponed Until Next Friday

The case of Edmond Cretens, 628 North 19th street, charged with reckless driving on the complaint of Mrs. Mary Poquette, 1301 North 21st street, which was to have been heard yesterday before Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette, has been postponed until Friday, March 29 at 4 p. m., to enable counsel just secured by Cretens to prepare his case.

The charge against Cretens followed a minor automobile collision here on March 14.

Escanaban Has Narrow Escape From Death In B-29 Crash In Pacific

Details of the narrow escape from death he experienced recently when the B-29 super-fortress on which he served as radio operator crashed and burned at sea about 35 miles off Kwajalein on March 12, were related by Cpl. Charles Beck in a letter received here yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Beck, 307 South 17th street.

Four in the seven-man crew and twice of the five passengers on the plane lost their lives in the crash.

Cpl. Beck wrote that the flight from Guam to Kwajalein was uneventful but the huge aircraft encountered trouble only a few minutes after its departure from Kwajalein when two engines went dead and the ship sank.

He said that he was stationed at his position in the radio compartment when the trouble began. The

Adult Education School Will Hold Graduation Tonight

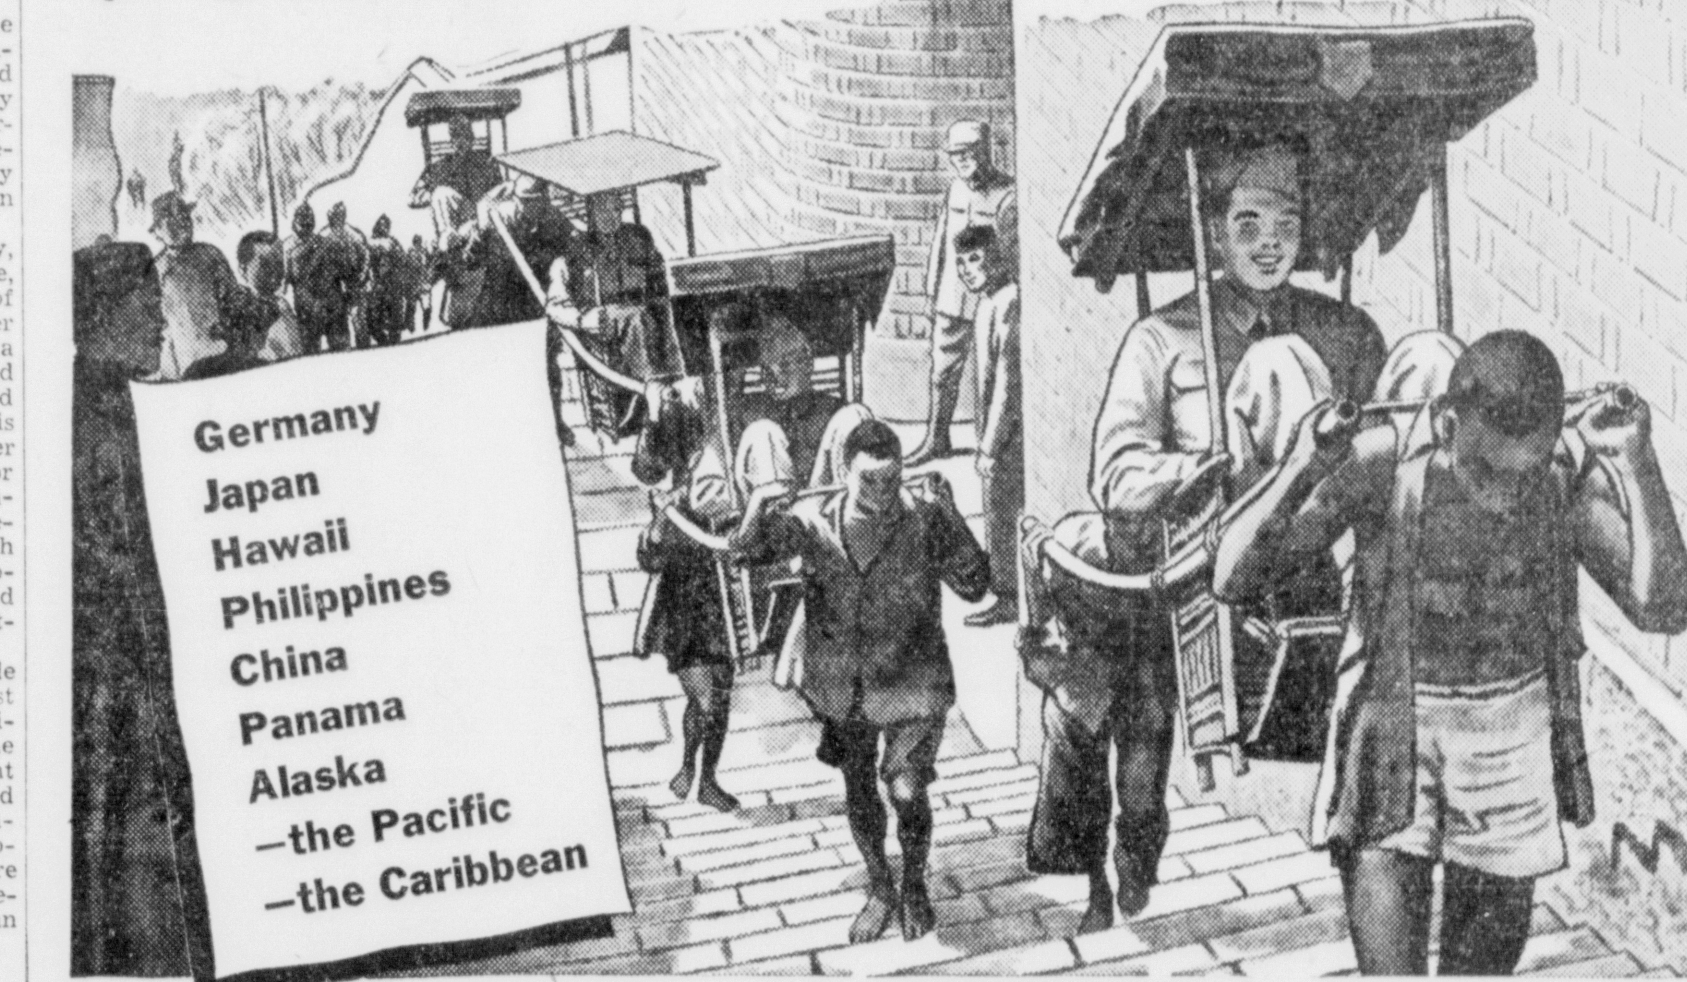

Graduation exercises will be held by the adult education school at the Wm. W. Oliver auditorium at 8 o'clock this evening. Regular class sessions, beginning at 7:15 o'clock, will be held before the program.

There will be an exhibition of articles made in some of the classes in the first floor corridors on the east side of the junior high school building. Articles on display will be from the following classes: knitting, furniture repair and refinishing, art, photography, machine shop and welding.

The auditorium stage program will present a kaleidoscopic view of the work done by various classes in the following order: consumer buying for homemakers, Spanish, practice in English grammar and speech, radio theory and repair, foods, bookkeeping for small businesses, typewriting, sewing and women's gym.

Supt. John A. Lemmer will present the certificates to the teachers, who later will turn them over to the students. About 250 students will receive diplomas.

Two Munising Men At Housing Meeting

Munising—Francis Cauchon, Alger county veterans councillor and Henry St. Martin, city commissioner, left Tuesday for Lansing to attend a two-day conference that opens Wednesday to take up the securing of emergency housing units for veterans within the city.

A survey of housing needs for veterans was recently completed in the city by Mr. Cauchon and it was found that 28 veterans are in dire need of housing. These 28 that are in need of housing have been living with relatives and friends.

Mr. Cauchon also wishes to announce that he will not make his regular trip to Trenary and Chatham this week due to the conference and his next visit in the two villages will be on April 10.

VETERANS RELEASED

Munising—A total of 17 more veterans this week reported back to Alger County draft board after their release from the armed forces. They are:

Munising—LaVerne C. Nicks, Paul A. Morin, Calvin T. Whitmore, Thomas W. Glassen, Gerald J. Savole, Norman G. Bonner, Don J. Cargill, Robert A. Bauman.

Shingleton—Edwin S. McPherson, Orville, J. Walding, Eben Junction—Leslie V. Ross, Grand Marais—Robert P. Pugh, Trenary—Arthur W. Kallio.

Others—John Laurich, Portland, Ohio; Donald G. Thornton, East Haven, Conn.; Lloyd J. Davis, Seattle, Wash.; Leland A. Parks, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Grand Marais Given Service By USES

Munising—The U. S. Employment Service working jointly with the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission will include the village of Grand Marais in its itinerant service on a bi-monthly basis. Effective date of the first trip will be March 28 and will continue every two weeks thereafter.

This special service became necessary because of the great number of servicemen's readjustment allowance claims in Grand Marais and also the increased job counselling which must be begun by the USES at once, Walter C. Meyland, manager of the U. S. Employment Service office here, stated today.

The bi-monthly meeting will be held in the Community building

Escanaba Chosen As Initiation City By K. of C. Order

Escanaba will be host to the Upper Peninsula district-initiations of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus in August of this year, it was decided at Sunday's meeting held here.

The meeting held Sunday in the K. of C. council chambers here, was called by Patrick L. Bennett, of Marquette, Master of the Degree and had representatives from Ironwood, Iron River, Iron Mountain, Sault Ste. Marie, Munising, Marquette and Escanaba.

Master Bennett presided over the assembly. He was accompanied here by his secretary, Gerald Pavegio.

Elks Will Conduct Funeral Services For Torval Strom

Escanaba lodge 354, B. P. O. Elks, will conduct their funeral rites Wednesday afternoon in tribute to the memory of Torval E. Strom, a member of the lodge since 1912, whose death occurred in Florida last week. The services will be held at the Alto funeral home, and members are asked to gather at the Elks temple at 1:15 p. m. Wednesday to attend the funeral in a body.

In Grand Marais and announcements will be made regularly in this paper regarding itinerant service dates.

CLOSED ON SATURDAY

Munising—Effective this date, the Munising office of the U. S. Employment Service will be closed all day Saturdays. This action was brought about because of the return of all state USES offices to a 40 hour week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Artibe returned Monday after a three day visit with relatives in the Soo.

Mrs. Ira Hanson and son Junior left Saturday to spend several days visiting with relatives in Ontonagon.

Mrs. Armour King and Mrs. Rilla Woods of Marquette spent several days here the past week visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cole.

U-Turn Ordinance Is Still In Effect, Drivers Reminded

Making U-turns on Ludington street, at intersections or on side streets except the few that are particularly wide (like South Tenth street) is still unlawful, Police Chief Michael Eitenhofer reminds motorists, who have grown extremely careless recently regarding this traffic ordinance.

The practice of some drivers, who swing into the pedestrian lanes at Ludington street intersections, then around and back to the main street in making U-turns, is especially dangerous and must be stopped at once, the chief added.

Although there has been no enforcement of the U-turn regulation east of Sixth street and west of Fourteenth street on Ludington as a result of city council action more than a decade ago, drivers have recently persisted in ignoring the law where traffic is heaviest on the main street and future violators are going to be penalized, Eitenhofer said.

Despite this lack of enforcement, motorists who make U-turns east of Sixth and west of Fourteenth should understand that they do so at their own risk and that in any case it is a traffic violation, officers pointed out.

Pictorial Record Of Finals In Upper Peninsula Cage Tournament

standing—Junior Paul, student manager; Jack Schils, John Beson, LeRoy Finn, Roger Peterson, Dick Lough, and Coach Jim Rouman.

GOING UP—There was a mad scramble for the rebound in this tense moment in the championship game. Ohman, No. 5, is jumping for the pellet with Maki, 89, Doherty, 49, and Welsh, 39, all of the Soo. Ohman tipped the ball to Dufour, No. 8.

LAYING IT IN — Don Ohman, No. 5, Eskymo forward, was caught in mid-air by the camera in this amazing picture. The ball flipped over the rim and through the hoop for two points.

SCORE ONE FOR ROCK—The Little Giants of Rock captured the Class D peninsula championship at Ironwood Saturday night and this picture shows why. Marvin Kivekas is pushing the ball through the net for a field goal. No. 12 is Richard Moen, Rock guard. No. 8 is D. Muscoe of Cedarville and No. 20 is Causley of Cedarville.

MERRY MIXUP—There was a bit of heated action in the Rock-Cedarville game when the Daily Press photographer snapped this one. Kivekas is jumping with an unidentified Cedarville player for the ball while Ray Lampinen, No. 11, looks on, along with Causley, Cedarville, No. 20, Nye, No. 4 Cedarville, and an unidentified Rock player.

HAPPY ESCANABA FANS—This shows the hilarious Escanaba cheering section at the Ironwood gymnasium Saturday night.

As the expressions indicate, the Eskymos are rolling happily towards victory and the upper peninsula championship.

ARE WE PLEASED?—Escanaba fans had many opportunities to cheer in the finals Saturday night. They are shown here in another happy moment.

The Escanaba team just rolled in another field goal and the outcome was no longer in doubt.

Virginia Finch Earl G. Shepard Are Wed Sunday

At a ceremony which took place on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist church, Miss Virginia Helen Finch, daughter of Mrs. William T. Murray, Long Island, N. Y., became the bride of Earl G. Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Shepard of Watervliet, Mich. The couple exchanged vows before the Rev. Otto H. Steen.

The bride was attired in a tailored black suit with white accessories, and wore a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. She was attended by Mrs. Elton Buck, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Buck wore an aqua suit with navy accessories and her flowers were also gardenias. Elton Buck was best man.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Shepard wore a grey tailored suit with navy accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper for 14 guests was served at the House of Ludington. The bride attended school in Long Island, N. Y. Mr. Shepard attended school in Weyerhaeuser, Wis., and recently was discharged from the service.

Out of town guests at the wedding were J. T. Shepard of Watervliet; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elton Buck of Detroit; Mrs. H. T. White of Gladstone, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon White and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred White of Gladstone.

Urge Home Garden As Health Measure

The urgent need for family gardens is sharply pointed up by surveys of foods eaten by rural school children in two Michigan counties. Serious deficiencies were found in consumption of the protective foods, tomatoes, green leafy and yellow vegetables, fruit and milk.

Kent and Ogemaw were the two counties studied. The report is published in the current issue of the Michigan Department of Health's monthly bulletin under the heading, "Needed: A Cow and a Few Tomato Plants".

In 144 rural schools each pupil kept a record of every food he ate. The food records were judged against the National Research Council's recommended dietary allowance for a child 10 to 12 years of age. This calls for the following foods each day: 1 quart of whole milk; 2 ounces of lean meat, fish or poultry; 2 servings of vegetables (1 green or yellow); 2 slices of whole grain or enriched bread; 1 serving of cooked cereal; 2 tablespoons of butter or 1/4 cup of margarine. Five eggs a week are recommended.

In Kent county, which health workers consider to be well above the state average in healthful living conditions, school children were getting only 66 per cent of the needed fruit and vegetables and only 75 per cent of the needed milk.

In Ogemaw county the majority of the children did not have sufficient milk, or vegetables. In only three of the 21 schools studied were the pupils averaging one serving a day of citrus fruit or tomatoes, which supply the necessary Vitamin C.

Stressing the advantages of home-grown fruits and vegetables the State Health Department devoted the entire March issue of its bulletin to gardening. Copies are available on request from the Michigan Department of Health, Lansing 4.

Women's Clubs to Meet In Detroit

The 51st annual convention of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs will be held in Detroit on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 9-10-11. All meetings will be held in the Book-Cadillac hotel and a large attendance is anticipated. Many members, delegates and officers from all parts of the state have already registered with the state secretary.

It is the desire of the MSFWC board members that Michigan club-women be given an opportunity to exchange ideas and to hear outside speakers to help prepare for international understanding and world citizenship.

Mrs. James R. Walsh has been chosen chairman of local affairs, and will work with club officers and members of her committee.

Mrs. Francis P. Furlong of Newberry, state chairman of Creative and Fine Arts of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, will have charge of an exhibit in the Normandie Room of the Book-Cadillac hotel during the convention. Mrs. Furlong and her five co-chairmen will endeavor to show work accomplished by the department during the past year. All members of Federated clubs who have original work in painting, sculpture, literature or music, and would like to have it exhibited, are asked to contact Mrs. Furlong, or to send contributions with their delegates.

Leg Care Helps To Preserve Nylons

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

After you've stood in queues or begged a sales clerk for that pair of glamor-gam nylons and borne them triumphantly home, don't turn them into what looks like service-weight stockings by wearing them over neglected stubble.

What's more to be feared are snags from a neglected crop which can cause runs and put you back in the stocking line that forms at the left.

So what to do? Leg-lovely Hollywood stars use a razor, a depilatory wax or cream to erase stubby growth before it has a chance to blur skin or snag hard-to-get nylons.

Slickest technique for daubing on and ripping off wax, says Evelyn Keyes, star of "Renegades," is to allow time for the melted wax to cool after you heat it and to spoon it on against the grain of the hair.

Evelyn spreads the stuff in patches about two inches square, each of which is about one-quarter inch thick. She is careful, she says, to pile up a blob on each patch for easy handling when she's ready to rip and to keep wax from hardening and breaking when she strips it.

Those girls who use a cream depilatory precaution you to follow the maker's instructions, especially about thickness of application and how long to leave on the stuff.

Garments of brushed rayon will remain soft and fluffy a long time if washed carefully by hand, not crowded into a washer.

Roberta Evans, James McDonald Wed In Tacoma

In a double ring ceremony which took place on Feb. 14, in St. Patrick's church, Tacoma, Wash., Miss Roberta Anne Evans became the bride of Cpl. James R. McDonald of Escanaba, son of Mrs. James E. McDonald of 235 Ogden avenue. The vows were spoken before Rev. Father Shaughnessy, who officiated at the service.

The bride, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Evans of Hartline, Wash., was given in marriage by her father. She wore an attractive dressmaker suit of old rose, a matching flower hat and black accessories. Orchids formed her shoulder corsage and she carried a white prayer book and rosary.

Attending her was her sister, Mrs. Phillip C. Walesby, Jr., of Tacoma, and Mr. Walesby served as Cpl. McDonald's best man. Ushers were Robert V. Watkins of Fairbanks, Alaska, and James Younger of Tacoma.

A wedding breakfast for relatives and close friends was served in the Presidential suite of the Winthrop hotel immediately following the ceremony, and in the evening a reception for sixty-five guests was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walesby. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the effective appointments for the reception, at which Mrs. Bess Warner, Mrs. James Younger, Doris Wilten, Betty Mae Hampton, Mrs. Vern Hinrich and Mrs. Jack Swanson of Seattle, presided. Also assisting were Miss Marian Jones of Seattle and Harriet and Walter Warner.

The couple left immediately following the reception for a short honeymoon in Seattle and Spokane, and until Cpl. McDonald receives his discharge from the service, they are making their home in Tacoma.

Mrs. McDonald was graduated from Holy Names Academy in Spokane and while there was a member of the Twelve Priod and

How Would You Like to Live in the "Good Old Days"?

★ Back in grandfather's time, during the final quarter of the last century, things were quite different. There were no movies, no airplanes, no automobiles, few bathrooms, practically no efficient electrical appliances. If you contracted diabetes or pernicious anemia, your days were numbered. Your blood just "changed to sugar" in the former, "to water" in the latter.

There was little protection against virulent epidemics. Smallpox vaccine was the only biological on the market. When diphtheria or typhoid ravaged a community, there was nothing to do but wait it out in hope and dread.

Yes, a return to the "good old days" would mean, among other things, the sacrifice of the major portion of the contribution of medicine and pharmacy to your health and well-being.

McDonald is a graduate of Escanaba high school and attended a school of radio in Madison, Wis., and of radar at Boca Raton, Florida. He served five months overseas with the Eighth Air Forces in the European theater, and was based with the 491st Bombing Group at Swaffham, England. Since returning from overseas he has been based with the air-sea rescue boat squadron at Point Defiance, Wash.

Sunnyside PTA Elects Officers

Officers of the Sunnyside Parent-Teacher association were elected at the March meeting held last week. The new officers are: Mrs. Arthur Sundquist, president; Mrs. Clifford Olson, vice-president; Mrs. Carl Bolm, secretary; Mrs. Gillard Pearson, treasurer; Mrs. Ebrath Peterson, historian.

Robert McKindles was the guest speaker at the meeting. He discussed the proposed changes in the township schools for the coming year. The plan would allow longer recitation periods, more time for individual instruction, and would result in a higher degree of teacher-pupil efficiency. Mr. McKindles also reported on the Rural and Family Living conference, held recently at Rapid River.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Madalinski, included the following numbers: "Sit-Down Strike," by Mrs. Arthur Sundquist; guitar duet—"Home in San Antonio," by Kenneth Bolm and Mrs. Grace Potroth; poem—"The Discharge Button," read by Mrs. Frank Konkel.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Joseph Madalinski, Mrs. Cy Martin, Mrs. Arthur Sundquist, and Mrs. Gillard Pearson.

Bulgarian Leader Plays Ball With Stalin

Col. Kimon Georgiev, professional soldier, putschist, politician, runs to Stalin when U. S. suggests his government isn't truly representative.

By JOACHIM JOESTEN

NEA Special Correspondent

New York (NEA)—Every time Uncle Sam shakes a finger at little Kimon Georgiev, that naughty boy runs to Uncle Joe for help. No wonder the democratic education of Bulgaria is being retarded.

It happened last November, when we didn't like the way the general election was held. It happened again after the Big Three conference at Moscow, where it was decided that at least two members of the opposition should be included in the Cabinet.

It has just happened a third time, following a reminder sent by the State Department to Sofia on Feb. 22, urging Georgiev to get busy on his Cabinet reshuffle and to pick a couple of "truly representative" oppositionists.

Each time Sofia promptly referred the matter to Moscow with a request for "friendly advice." Each time Stalin took his time and nothing happened. Result: Bulgaria today is the only Balkan country whose government has not yet been recognized by the United States.

Army Trained

Premier Kimon Georgiev is the only professional military man among Stalin's viceroy. He holds the rank of colonel in the Bulgarian Army, and has fought many battles, both in the field against the enemies of his country, and at home against his political adversaries, who are many.

Born in 1882 at Pazardzhik, a small town of Southern Bulgaria, Georgiev, after graduating from high school, entered the Royal Military Academy. He received a thorough army training and fought in the Balkan wars of 1912 and 1913. He commanded a regiment in World War I and was severely wounded, losing an eye.

For some time he wore a patch over his missing left eye, but now he has a glass eye, well concealed behind heavy, dark-rimmed spectacles.

Bulgaria lost the last two of the three wars in which Georgiev fought. It came out an impoverished, irreverent, strife-torn country. In 1922, Colonel Georgiev retired from active service and threw himself headlong into politics. He became a putschist of note. His record to date includes four major uprisings—all but one of them successful.

First, in June 1923, he took a leading part in Tsankoff's coup d'etat which ended the regime of Bulgaria's famous peasant leader, Stamboliski. During the struggle, Stamboliski was taken prisoner and tortured to death. Gruessome murder has been a feature of Bulgarian politics since the country became independent in 1878; it still is.

In 1926, Georgiev joined the Liapcheff Cabinet as Minister of Railways, but resigned two years later with a resounding blast against "the abuses and favoritism" of the regime and the "rapacity of foreign and local vested interests."

Even before resigning his post in the Government, Georgiev, in 1927, had founded the "Zveno" (Link), a political club composed of discontented officers and radical intellectuals. For some years, the organization has a distinctly Fascist tinge, but later on it veered toward communism.

On May 19, 1934, the Zveno and the allied "Military League," headed by Col. Damian Velcheff, overthrew the civilian government and set up a military dictatorship. Georgiev became Premier; his friend Velcheff was named Minister of War.

The new government attempted, among other things, to curtail the prerogatives of the Crown. On Jan. 23, 1935, King Boris staged a counter-putsch. Colonels Georgiev and Velcheff was dismissed and arrested.

Coup Fails

Released shortly after, they attempted another coup d'etat in October which misfired completely. Velcheff was condemned to death, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Georgiev got off with a shorter stretch.

In 1940, Georgiev ran for Parliament on a united opposition ticket, but the government, already subservient to Nazi Germany, annulled his election.

In March, 1941, the Germans occupied Bulgaria and Georgiev, along with hundreds of other oppositionists, was sent to a concentration camp. Even so, he managed to remain in touch with his followers. In 1942 the Zveno, the communists, and other radical groups joined hands in the "Fatherland Front," which became the spearhead of underground resistance.

Georgiev's hour finally struck on Sept. 9, 1944. After a four-day war with Russia, Bulgaria sued for peace. The pro-Nazi Regency (set up after King Boris' death in 1943) was tottering. That night, armed partisans of the Fatherland Front seized all government buildings and arrested the Cabinet.

Georgiev again became Premier; Velcheff again took the job of War Minister. For the rest, however, the new government's composition was vastly different from the 1934 team. At that time, the communists had been outlawed—now they were given the key portfolios of Interior and Justice.

Ironically, Velcheff himself for a long time was decry by the Reds as a ruthless foe of communism.

Purges Opposition

The new regime carried out one of the bloodiest purges that have occurred in any Soviet-controlled country since the end of the war. At least 3000 persons were executed last year, including Prince Cyril, brother of the late King Boris, and a score of former Cabinet Members.

These harsh reprisals, and the radical policies of the Georgiev regime, have given rise to strong opposition within the country. However, at the general election

Queen Iona King Simeon held on Nov. 18, 1945, the communist-dominated Fatherland Front won a smashing victory. There is some doubt as to the regularity of this poll, which was boycotted by the opposition.

Late developments in Bulgaria suggest that Georgiev has become something of a figure-head. The real power behind his throne is the aggressive boss of the Communist Party, Georgi Dimitroff, of Reichstag Fire fame. General and Col. Velcheff—now a general—have concluded a hard and fast alliance.

Despite his turbulent past and the terroristic methods employed by his government, Georgiev is described by persons who know him well as a studious, courteous, mild-mannered man of unquestionable honesty and sincerity. He is fervently pro-Russian, but does

HUNT JOBS FOR WOUNDED VETS

War Still Isn't Over For Ex-GI's Until They Find Work

By KATHRYN UMPHREY
Battle Creek, (P)—Soldier-patients at Percy Jones hospital are now in the employment business in earnest, trying to solve their most important postwar problem—locating jobs for wounded soldiers.

It is strictly a business arrangement. They want no jobs from sympathy. They are only trying to arrange it so a wounded ex-GI gets a crack at a job he can do.

The first of its kind ever to be run in the army, this employment service in a little more than a month has placed five former patients in good jobs and at least 50 other soldiers, who are still patients, have signed up for job hunting help.

"The war is over for most people already—but it won't be for me or for most of the fellows here until we start earning our own living," says Lt. David Spiller, leg amputee from Chicago, who heads the service.

Wearing his new artificial leg for the first time, Spiller leaned on his cane and glanced down the long hospital corridor, filled with men in casts on crutches and in wheel chairs.

"You might not think so, but they worry about jobs all the time," he said, nodding in their direction. "They've got more responsibilities now than they had before and they know they've got one strike against them already."

Want No Sympathy

Spiller and Corp. Leonard Vanderlinde, arm amputee from Grand Rapids, both patients, volunteered for their job because they thought it was important. When they leave other patients will take over. At first they worked mainly through two contacts—the National Association of Personnel Directors in Chicago and Leslie H. Green in Detroit—but they hope soon to get in touch with Chamber of Commerce or similar organizations in various not regard himself as a communist.

Like Paasikivi and Groza, Georgiev is rather short and stubby, but he lacks the sardoniously good humor of the former two. A highly incongruous Hitler moustache adorns his expressive, oval face.

Nominally, Bulgaria is still a monarchy, but Georgiev has even less regard for the Crown than is shown by his Romanian colleague. Little boy King Simeon, aged 8, and Queen Mother Iona are held in virtual confinement at the royal castle of Vrana.

From all indications, it is now only a matter of months, perhaps weeks, before the monarchial system will be abolished in Bulgaria.

In the meantime, the royal functions are exercised by a leftist three-man Regency, dominated by a Communist Party stalwart, Todor Pavloff, a well-known writer of Marxist doctrine.

midwest towns for help in placing men in jobs.

Biggest problem is overcoming prospect employers' skepticism at hiring men—say with one or two artificial legs, or a hook in place of an arm, Spiller says. In this respect the handicapped veteran is in a hard spot. The army has spared no expense in teaching him he can work, letting him know exactly what he can expect to do. A few large firms have made surveys and know exactly what jobs men with artificial arms and legs, can handle—but so far this is the exception. Generally the public is not convinced yet that these men can hold normal jobs.

Along this line Spiller commented, "We don't want jobs because of sympathy. No self-respecting man would take one. The first thing we tell employers is that we don't want them to make jobs. We'll take what is there, if we can do it and that is all."

Briefly Spiller outlined how the service operates. Before a soldier, interested in a job, goes on his last furlough before his discharge, he tells Spiller or Vanderlinde what kind of a job he is looking for. From the doctor they get a complete report telling exactly what mental and physical labor the patient can be expected to do.

A Better Worker

If he lives in the Detroit or Chicago area, this report along with a letter explaining the man's interests and skills is forwarded to the contacts who begin to look around for a suitable opening for the man. In other areas the service contacts firms directly in an attempt to line up jobs and interviews. Occasionally some firm writes to the hospital inquiring about prospective employees.

The card catalogue of those wanting jobs in the near future holds names of two young men from Lansing, one from Flint, several from Detroit and many who indicate they will work "anywhere."

Reports coming back to the hospital about men already placed are encouraging and bear out Spiller's theory that a wounded soldier is a good bet. "I'm convinced that a handicapped ex-soldier will make a better, more conscientious worker than he was before. He's had a lot of time to think, he knows what he wants, and he knows he'll have to work harder than most men to make up for his handicap," he explains.

Two of the soldiers placed are in Detroit through the help of Green. Sgt. Kenneth Bailey, double leg amputee has an office job; and Sidney Ray, still wearing an arm cast is working on his furlough with a building firm. When he returns he'll be trained as a building appraiser.

Baltimore Symphony Gets A Chong-goo

Baltimore (P)—The rare chong-goo is coming to the concerts of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra next season.

The chong-goo is an ancient Korean drum, shaped like an hour glass. Conductor Reginald Stewart says he has heard of the Oriental instrument and is "delighted that the orchestra is to possess one."

The instrument is the gift of Dr. Kim Sung Soo, president of the Korean democratic party.

Mexican Infiltration Shadows Prosperity

Mexico City—Inflation is a shadow on Mexico's hope for peaceful prosperity. The country is rich in underground and has cash in the bank, but price controls never were enforced, or didn't work, and now Mexico faces the consequences.

When the war ended, merchants revealed hoarded stocks and began to push them to make way for the expected flood of goods from the United States and elsewhere. U. S. strikes, shipping shortages and limping railroads in Mexico cancelled that dream. This is being complicated by Mexico's sudden imposition of license imports to protect home industries and to curtail luxury buying. As a result, shelves are getting empty, prices are rising. The cost of living now is reaching three and a half times the 1934 base figure.

Financially Sound

Financially, Mexico feels she is solid. The central bank holds $370,000,000 in gold and foreign exchange. About three-fourths of that is gold. The immediate purchasing power abroad is about $50,000,000, held in New York by Mexican banks and individuals, plus whatever loose pesos can be mobilized here. In any case, the Bank of Mexico can furnish all the gold or exchange imports need without weakening the peso, which is pegged at 4.85 to the dollar until June 30, 1947.

If hungry consumers can keep their money in their pockets a little longer the rising storm may subside, but in the meantime the poor people are pinched.

Plight of the Poor

The poor are numerous and their income hasn't kept up with prices. The last figures are for 1940 when 6,000,000 people worked. Of them, 5,154,000 were paid up to 90 cents daily. Earning up to $2.00 daily were 948,000. Only 50,000 people received more than that. On these incomes they supported families when the cost of living already had gone up 57 per cent.

There are bright aspects. Mexico is the world's chief silver producer, mining about 60,000,000 troy ounces yearly, two-fifths of the world supply, and the recent increase from 45 cents an ounce to 71.11 gave quite a bulge to the collective pocketbook.

SCENIC ROADSIDES—How green and cool these northland roadsides look. The roadsides are the country's show windows. They indicate thoughtfulness for the generations of tomorrow who will be seeking the peace and quiet of the green woodlands for relaxation.

POLICE SOLVE CAMP BREAKING

Two Youths Lured By Probate Judge Miller

The breaking and entering of a camp at Chilson owned by James Bastian has been solved by the apprehension of two minor youths, each 16 years of age, of this city, who admitted breaking into the building.

Michigan State Police of the Gladstone Post picked up, questioned and obtained the confessions of the two boys.

They were brought before Probate Judge William Miller yesterday and the cases have been taken under advisement. A stern lecture on the seriousness of the offense committed was given the boys by the juvenile judge.

Ole Olson, 75, of Thompson, is in the Shaw hospital in critical condition from burns sustained when his clothing caught fire on Monday morning.

He had taken his car to the farm of Alfred Erickson to have some adjustments made on the vehicle and was watching Erickson work when, lighting his pipe and throwing the burning match to the ground, he started a grass fire. The flames caught onto his trousers legs and before he or Erickson were able to do anything to stop the fire, the entire lower part of his body was horribly burned.

Erickson and Mrs. A. J. Smith, a daughter of Mr. Olson, took the injured man to town. His condition is regarded as grave.

Housefly Aids Man
In Research Study
Of Celery Plants

Ithaca, N. Y.—The housefly, one of our worst insect pests, is aiding man in research which promises to bring celery to the American housewife's table.

Flies are being raised by plant breeders at Cornell University to cross-pollinate celery plants.

When the flowers are in full bloom, the flies are transferred from the rearing cage in to a cheesecloth cage which contains the two plants to be crossed. In going from flower to flower to obtain nectar, the only source of food, they bring about the desired cross pollination.

The effort at Cornell is to develop a blight-resistant celery. When experiments were begun, a celery was being grown in Denmark which was resistant to early blight but was poor in eating qualities. This has been crossed with American varieties to produce a celery resistant to early blight and with better eating qualities than one of the parent plants. Similarly, a Florida celery, resistant to late blight, has been used.

Results of these combined crosses are not yet fully completed, but Prof. R. A. Emerson is confident that within the next five years a blight-resistant celery will be produced which any housewife will be proud to serve on her table.

Plants are brought to Ithaca in October and stimulated into immediate springtime growth by cold storage treatment under fluorescent lights for about a month. Placed in a greenhouse, the usually produce seed for planting in April.

Million Year Old
Shellfish Pearl Is Found In Maryland

Washington—Shellfish made pearls a million years ago even as they do today. Evidence to this effect is set forth in the new issue of the Journal of the Washington Academy of Sciences by Dr. Roland W. Brown of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Some time ago, digging around in a stratum of Pleistocene ice age in the face of a river bluff in southern Maryland, Dr. Brown found a big snailshell, its cavity filled with mud, which in turn contained numbers of small mollusk shells. When these were taken out and cleaned up, one of them, a little less than half an inch long, presented a small nodule of pearly material grown fast to its inner surface.

General Electric
Building Largest Turbine Generator

Schenectady, N. Y.—A giant, 100,000-kilowatt turbine generator, largest of its type in the world, is now under construction here at the General Electric Company's turbine factory.

Designed to operate at 3,600 revolutions per minute, the streamlined generator will be 77 feet long and 17 feet in maximum width. Turbine buckets on the generator will rotate at the record velocity of 1,300 feet per second or nearly 900 miles per hour.

Steam entering the turbine at 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit with 1,250 pounds of pressure per square inch, will pass through a series of bucket wheels rotating the turbine rotor and driving the huge generator.

In one-tenth of a second, the steam's temperature drops to about 70 degrees Fahrenheit and the air pressure becomes a near vacuum. The steam becomes water and goes back into the power plant system to again be heated into steam.

Huge rough castings are used in the construction of the generator which is being built for the Public Service Electric and Gas Co., New Jersey. The forging for the generator shaft weighs 75,000 pounds.

Off The Chest ...

BY JAY ARRELL

A few months ago this column dwelt at length on the subject of vistas. We enthused over the sights we saw from certain elevations, mentioning particularly the view from the court house tower. The scenes that were crowded in to our range of vision made an impressive picture and we felt we had to tell the folks about it.

But we fear those vistas will be a bit tame from now on because only a few days ago we were privileged to view Manistique and vicinity from an airplane and about fifteen hundred feet on one of the clearest days of the year may have spoiled it for us.

It was, incidentally our first experience in a plane, and our pilot, Don Pettier, of the Schoolcraft county airport, seemed to know just what to do to make it a grand experience. But we fear we did not appreciate some of those vistas—especially the one when he banked the plane so as to give us a better view of what lay directly below.

First impressions are more or less unreal and in this case the scene below appeared to us like a brilliantly lighted diorama. Even as we took off, the fields near at hand looked mysterious. A plowed field looked like a huge carpet of chocolate colored corduroy cloth and an untilled field beyond, like a huge buffalo robe.

This, however, intrigued us but for a moment, for the plane suddenly veered to the west and as we gained height what we saw looked for all the world like a brightly painted topographical map—planned on the same scale as the chart of the city hanging on the Press office wall.

What amazed us most, it seems, was that crazy labyrinth produced by the course of the Indian and Manistique rivers. The courses of these two streams are even more cooked than their delineation on the maps, because no cartographer would bother with such a whim of nature. And that Jamestown Slough is even more of an eyesore from the air than it is from the ground.

And almost as depressing as the slough were the unsightly remains of the iron works, the chemical plant and some of the other industrial plants that in bygone days provided the livelihood, directly or indirectly, for practically all of Manistique's residents. And well we venture to guess that there are enough bricks in them still, to provide building material for all of the new business places being planned for the city.

But the view was too wonderful to give one time to contemplate on Manistique's past glory. Manistique, itself, looked lovely and very much alive. A child, looking down from our eminence, would certainly have exclaimed "Ain't it cute!" for no toy, however skillfully made, could have taken on the fineness of the "toy village" we beheld. And no mechanical toy automobile could take on the realism of those vari-colored "mechanical bugs" that scooted back and forth along a miniature Cedar street.

Also very impressive were the industrial plants beyond the three-laned river. This was particularly true of the paper mill, with water, at flood stage, plunging out of its mill race and whips of smoke and steam rising from its stack and steam exhausts.

But these were soon passed on over to Indian Lake, which appeared to be but a stone's throw away. Ice still covered most of it and early spring showed it to disadvantage, but cottages and resorts that are hidden from the wayfarer along the highways, came into view and we have acquired a new respect for the vacationing possibilities in the vicinity of that body of water.

Of course, we had to pay a special visit to the Big Spring. It looked like a spoonful of opalescent motor oil. The contrast with the color of water in the open patches on the lake was even more striking from this view than it is close at hand and the silt ridges were perfectly distinct.

The area to the west of Indian

Will Conduct
Girl Scout Day
Camp In July

Plans are under way for a Girl Scout Day Camp to be held at the Trailer Park during the month of July. Two weeks of this camp will be assigned to Brownies and two weeks for Scouts.

The camp will be directed by Mrs. Walter Hampton who is well experienced in many phases of camp work.

The Camp committee is composed of Mrs. K. P. Van Eyck, Mrs. George Schweikert, Mrs. Max Osterhout, Mrs. L. J. McLaughlin, Mrs. H. P. Trieger and Mrs. A. F. Hall.

Rain Puts End
To Fire Hazard

Forestry employees in this area sighed in relief as the thickening fog throughout the day turned into rain about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Thus far this spring there have been no fires of a serious nature in the area, but the hazard, especially from dried slashings and long grass has been bad for this time of the year. The towers at Cooks and Steuben have been fully manned and burning of slashings has not been permitted before 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Lowlands, at this time, present no difficulty, but grass in the uplands has been tinder dry.

Obituary

MRS. JAMES COWMAN

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at the Morton Funeral Home for Mrs. James Cowman, 76, resident of this vicinity for more than 56 years. The Rev. D. A. MacPhee conducted the services and burial was in Lakeview cemetery. The following friends were pallbearers: E. T. King, Vern Johnson, Nels Halsey, Henning Mattson and Otto Hood.

Farmers got 54 cents out of the consumer's food dollar in 1945—a new record, says the Department of Agriculture. Reasons: Farm prices rose faster than retail prices; marketing costs on fresh fruits and vegetables were shaved a little, presumably because of more efficient handling and faster turnover.

lake presented a grim but impressive picture of what a carelessly thrown cigarette will do. A great expanse of earth is, with the exception of a few scrubby trees and burnt stumps, utterly barren of vegetation—a Sahara in God's loveliest wooded area.

On our return journey we looked out upon Lake Michigan and saw far out on the edge of the horizon two islands—one flat as the proverbial pancake and the other well rounded. Fishermen tell us that these are Gull and Beaver islands.

Yes, we've got the flying fever too, but we shall continue to do our trips aloft with a good seasoned pilot at the controls.

INLAND LOCAL TO STOP WORKThreatened Strike To Begin Wednesday
Morning

A decision to strike, voted several weeks ago by the workers at the Inland Lime and Stone Company, will go into effect Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

The decision for such action was voted at a meeting of Local 377, the company union, an affiliate of the International Union of Mine and Smelter Workers, CIO, held at the I. O. O. F. hall Sunday afternoon.

The union is asking a thirty per cent wage increase and following their presentation of demands were offered an increase of 12½ cents per hour. The offer was rejected and a subsequent meeting between the company and representatives found the parties unable to agree.

Notified of the union's decision, A. J. Cayia, vice president and general manager of the company issued the following statement: "Inland employees have decided to strike on the issue of wages only. All other contract issues have been settled and accepted by both parties."

"As a strike of our employees will seriously effect the economy of our community, it would appear to be important for the general public to understand all the facts leading up to the strike."

The previous contract between the company and the union expired on November 17, 1945; and early in September the union advised the company they desired to negotiate a new contract. The company and union have been meeting since September 25, 1945 on these negotiations, the last meeting being on Saturday, March 23, 1946.

On the matter of wages, President Truman issued Executive Order No. 9697 on February 14, 1946, defining allowable wage increases; and on March 8, 1946 Chester Bowles, economic stabilization director, issued supplemental wage and salary regulations.

"According to these authorities, an approved wage increase is one that is made to meet the cost-of-living increase. If the increase in average straight time hourly earnings from January 1941 to September 1945 has been less than the cost-of-living increase, which is deemed to be 33 per cent for the purpose of these regulations, then an increase is allowable if made to satisfy this percentage."

"The facts are the Inland Company made previous increases, and with the present increase offered,

Chamber Of Commerce Week Launched By Service Clubs

The opening of Chamber of Commerce Week was observed yesterday at the meetings of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, at which plans for the C. of C. membership campaign were described by officers of the organization.

Harold P. Lindsay, chairman of the membership campaign, delivered a stirring address at the meeting of the Kiwanis club, in which he called upon members to support the drive, which will open Thursday morning with a breakfast at the Sherman hotel.

"Deposits in the three banks and the assessed valuation of the city total over 25 million dollars, and it behooves the citizens to spend a little money to protect the investment we have in Escanaba," Lindsay asserted. "The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce is operating on a budget which ranges from $10,000 to $15,000, but a budget of $25,000 would not be too much for supporting its program. Escanaba can well afford to spend one-tenth of one per cent on its $25,000,000 investment."

Speaking at the meeting of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs, Roy Overpack, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, said there are prospects for at least 200 new memberships. He expressed optimism about the future industrial growth of Escanaba, and read portions of letters which indicated that other concerns are willing to locate here if factory sites can be obtained. A Detroit real estate firm stated it has clients, who are looking for buildings, with floor space ranging from 25,000 to 800,000 square feet. Another Detroit concern is considering Escanaba as a location for the manufacture of helicopters.

John J. Bartella, president of The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, also addressed the meetings briefly.

Coach James Rouman and his Eskimos, the winners of the 1946 Class B basketball championship, were guests of the Kiwanis club yesterday. The coach, in a brief talk, praised the sportsmanship displayed by his boys.

Speakers at the Rotary club in connection with Chamber of Commerce Week were H. D. Brackett and George Lindenthal. Brackett outlined the history, the program and accomplishments of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, and Lindenthal described the benefits accruing to Escanaba through the Chamber of Commerce program.

Development of the city as a retail trading center, cooperative programs for the encouragement of agriculture in the county, establishment of a farmers' market in the city, the establishment of city management government, promotion and assistance in financing the development of the Ludington Park area, modern street lighting, zoning ordinance, snow removal on Ludington street, and most recently the Chamber of Commerce industrial program and others were mentioned by Brackett in his history of Chamber of Commerce accomplishments. In some of these the Chamber acted as a sponsoring or promotional agency. In others the program was carried out largely by the Chamber alone.

Lindenthal presented statistics illustrating the city's progress during the Chamber of Commerce program years.

Retail sales in Escanaba are $429 per year per capita, the highest of any city of comparable size in Michigan, and considerably above the state average of $287, and the national average of $270, Lindenthal reported. There are 786 persons engaged in retail establishments in the city. Lindenthal also reported that survey has shown that Escanaba has 58 per cent of its dwellings inhabited by the persons who own them, which is the highest percentage of "owner lived-in homes" in any city of comparable size in the state.

The Rotarians were entertained at their meeting by Albert Shomento, Escanaba public school instrumental music director, who played several trombone solos, accompanied at the piano by Miss Toni Giansanti.

Indianapolis, Ind., is one of the few large cities in the world not situated on a navigable river.

Lawrence Moreau Killed Suddenly In Los Angeles

Word was received here of the death of Lawrence Moreau, 43, former Escanaban, who was killed in Los Angeles, Calif., on Saturday night when he was struck by a car. He died almost immediately.

Mr. Moreau had made his home in Los Angeles for the past four years, where he was employed by a garage doing body-repair work. He was born in Escanaba and attended the local schools.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Moreau of Escanaba; two sisters, Sister M. Mercedes of Chicago, and Sister M. Conrad, of Appleton; three brothers, Harry and Fred of Escanaba, and Hubert of Los Angeles.

The body will be brought to Escanaba for burial in St. Ann cemetery. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.
